A Dark Hole for All
4,000 Millions Enough
By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1921.

The business of handling and lending money, always prosperous, whatever else may go up or down, grows marvelously. The great National City Bank of New York, more than a hundred years old, gives you these figures:

When that bank started there were only eighty-eight banks in the United States. And all their capital was $42,600,000.

Now there are 21,000 banking institutions in the country. Their capital is more than six THOUSAND MILLIONS, their deposits more than FORTY THOUSAND MILLIONS. It is a growing nation financially.

In other ways we are not doing so well. They have fewer than FIFTY THOUSAND idle people in all France. We have more than FIVE MILLIONS idle, with twenty millions depending on them. And the people of the United States, apparently, worry not at all about the idle.

The moving picture men feel it now, with 3,000 theatres closed and others closing. Five million idle and twenty million dependents are staying home. They are keeping out of the stores as well as out of the movies. Somebody ought to be interested in that.

Eighteen-year-old Jeanne Du Brul, high school girl, spent twenty-four hours in the black hole of a prison ship to win a prize of one hundred dollars. Many will say, "I would not spend twenty-four hours in such a dark hole for anything," but in the regular course of events we shall all spend many more hours, in a much darker hole, in the graveyard. It doesn't worry us much, whether we are eighteen or eighty.

What is indefinitely postponed is not realized.

Wouldn't cremation be better than the dark hole in the ground? To be reduced to ashes and have it all over in two minutes is so simple, self-respecting and tidy. Those that worry about resurrection in the flesh know well that the power able to gather their dust from earth and worms could also gather their smoke from the sky.

Cremation is convenient if you happen to be great and people want to preserve you. The Spaniards have dug up their national hero, the Cid, who conquered so many Moorish kings and supplied Corneille with material for his fine tragedies. There was no fun in ashes, just as when buried, also the ashes of his wife, Ximena. After being examined, his ashes and his wife's were put in different compartments of a new copper urn, solemnly buried in the cathedral, to stay indefinitely, available for new honors.

To the Spaniard, "the Cid" means everything that is magnificently heroic, from Achilles to Bayard, and from King Arthur and Launcelot to Foch and Abraham Lincoln. He is worth studying.

Alfred W. McCann, responsible newspaper man, says a secret deal was negotiated between the International Mercantile Marine Company and John Barton Payne to refit the Leviathan at a cost to the people of $12,000,000 and then turn it over to the private company. President Harding and Mr. Lasker, now in the office formerly occupied by John Barton Payne, will want full information about this.

Such secret deals have gone far enough. And four thousand millions of the people's money squandered by the Shipping Board already ought to be enough squandering. Those that have not yet had their full rake-off among the profiteers should go without.

Carelessness and consagration are wiping out part of the oil supplies that threatened almost to make gasoline cheap.

The Mexican oil fields of Amatlan are blazing as this is written. Flames, unconquerable, rise hundreds of feet into the air, the loss rises into hundreds of millions. Nature supplies wealth, human carelessness squanders it.

An honest, useful detective named Horton was shot down in New York by men in an automobile. A woman testified "everybody in the automobile was drunk before the lieutenant was shot." That should interest those supposed to enforce prohibition. The one thing we do not suppress is whiskey, the drink responsible for murders, poverty and disease. If the law had attacked that and its relations, brandy, gin, etc., instead of attacking everything, more might have been accomplished.

1 Killed, 3 Hurt In Auto Crash

COLLISION CUTS CAR IN TWO

Machine With Party of Lynn Men Hit by Truck at Waltham

One man was killed, another is dying and two others were injured as a result of a five-ton truck colliding with a touring car at Banks square, Waltham, today.

The touring car was hurled against a telephone pole and cut in two.

The dead man is James Gifford of the W. R. Gifford Furniture Company of Lynn. His head was smashed in the crash, and he was dead when pulled from the wreckage.

The injured are:

Aldion Bartlett, of No. 25 Park street, Lynn, driver of the car; fractured skull. He is dying at the Waltham Hospital.

H. E. Glover, of the Sprague-Hoag Box Company of Lynn, two broken ribs and multiple minor injuries.

G. W. Harwood of the Harwood Counter Company of Lynn, slightly injured.

The wrecked auto was the last of a group of six cars in which friends and employes of the Lynn National City Bank were riding to Worcester, where they were going to hold an outing at the Worcester Country Club.

As the machine passed through Banks square it started to pass another auto ahead. When it came abreast of the truck the big truck loomed in sight around the curve. The driver of the touring car frantically applied his brakes to avert a crash. The slippery street the machine skidded and swung in the path of the truck.

With a crash that could be heard for several blocks the truck crashed into the car, hitting it in the middle. The auto was knocked across the street and crashing into the telephone pole. The occupants were hurled in all directions.

Police and ambulances were rushed to the scene and the injured men were removed to the Waltham Hospital.

According to the police the truck was driven by Julius Rome of Worcester, and was owned by the Henry Transportation Company of Minden street, Worcester. It was on its way to Boston. On the truck with the driver were Michael Gilmore and Daniel Santomenno of Worcester. None of the three were injured, although the truck was badly damaged.

Banker Escapes Injury as Truck Upsets

John J. McCarthy, prominent Somerville business man and banker, was saved from death by the quick-wittedness of a chauffeur when the brakes gave way on a heavy auto truck in which they were riding on the famous Walnut street hill today. While the big truck careening wildly down the hill, headed for Somerville avenue and the trolley line, Harry Martell, No. 46 Marion street, Somerville, the thirty-year-old operator, swung it deliberately against a curbing.

The heavy machine bounced into the air, turned over and dropped to the sidewalk with such a crash that was heard for block. Martell leaped as it struck, and escaped injury. McCarthy, who clung to the cab of the truck, was also uninjured.

Mr. McCarthy, in addition to being president and manager of the Standard Charcoal Company of Somerville, by whom the truck is owned, is vice-president of the Highland Trust Company of that city and a director of the Charlestown Trust Company. He is a brother of former Assistant District Attorney William T. McCarthy of Middlesex County and the Rev. Father Thomas F. McCarthy, pastor of St. Clement's Church, Somerville.

OTHERWIFE OF IRWIN FOUND

Stunned by Disclosure of Double Life; Two Sons Meet Today

The New York wife of Arthur A. Irwin, former famous ball player, was found today by a Boston American representative. She has been very ill since learning that her husband had another wife and family in Boston.

Irwin's New York son is equally stunned by the news.

He declared to the Boston American representative that neither he nor his mother had the slightest suspicion that the famous ball player was leading a double life.

"We know nothing at all about it," he said as he disclosed the story of the meeting of his mother and the ball player years ago and of their subsequent life in New York.

"Mother met him in Philadelphia about thirty years ago when he was coaching the baseball team of the University of Pennsylvania. Her name was May Shedier. From time to time we used to various cities throughout the country, going with father wherever his baseball duties took him.

LIVED WITH N. Y. FAMILY

"How could we have any suspicion that he had another family?" asked young Irwin. He was constantly with us. Certainly he could not have had much opportunity to visit with the other family.

"Mother is so upset over it that she cannot make any move in the matter."

Today the two sons of the ball player will have a dramatic meeting in New York. Arthur arrived in New York with the purpose of seeking out the other son and the two will discuss the unusual situation.

AMAZED AT REVELATION.

When the double life of the ball player was learned by the son, Arthur of Boston, and the widow of the former ball player, they were astounded. Further investigation led young Arthur to say that he was forced to admit the truth of the matter. He immediately started for New York to find the "other woman" and the other son.

"I am going to find that woman and the boy who is said to be my father's other son, and I am going to fight to obtain any money or property that should go to my mother. I shall fight to the bitter end," said the son as he left Boston.

At the other end of the astounding tangle Harold Irwin of New York, was completely taken off his feet when he was informed that his father, the great ball player, had a family in Boston.

POINT WON BY TUFTS AT TRIAL

Evidence in Auto Cases Handled by Assistants Ruled Out by Court

Chief Justice Rugg of the Supreme Court today made the first important ruling to be handed down in the trial of District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts on charges of malfeasance and by it eliminated a considerable number of the charges being pressed against Tufts by Attorney-General Allen.

The ruling was to the effect that the court would accept no more evidence in certain cases handled by Tufts' assistants.

Attorney-General Allen was trying to show that Tufts, from improper motives, filed or nol prossed certain cases, principally violations of automobile laws.

Chief Justice Rugg informed him that in future he would be expected to show that Tufts himself disposed of the cases, and not his assistants.

Allen contended that where so many improper dispositions were brought to light Tufts should be held responsible for the acts of his assistants.

The court countered that there was nothing in Allen's bill of information against Tufts charging him with obtaining or retaining corrupt or improper assistants and he could not be tried for that. The ruling was a keen disappointment to the State.

BIGELOW CASE.

While the prosecution early today revolved about the auto cases there were indications that three major cases, chief among them the celebrated Bigelow case, would be reached shortly.

The Bigelow case is that affecting the former relations of William DeFord Bigelow, rich and influential, and beautiful Grace L. Farley. Allen charges that, from improper motives, Tufts failed to press a secret indictment against Bigelow on statutory grounds.

Other important cases which must be disposed of before the State winds up its case are that Tufts removed right include that of "Sio" Thomas Lonette, trance medium and charlatan de luxe, and the case of George T. Perry, alleged head of the Middlesex County auto theft ring.

Interest was keenest, however, in the famous Bigelow case, with its story of love and retribution.

It is particularly touching as Grace E. Farley, asylum inmate, has a fifteen-year-old daughter, Viola, who must bear the suffering and the shame from which the mother's darkened intellect protects her.

Grace Farley was a striking beauty of the brunette type and lived for years on Stearns avenue in Medford she met William DeFord Bigelow, son of Albert Bigelow, "Copper King" ly after that gilded youth left Harvard.

Medical Examiner Jones pronounced death due to a fractured spine.

GOVERNMENT BUYS RUTLAND SANITARIUM

An institution for the accommodation of 200 tubercular service men has been acquired by the government at Rutland, Mass., it was learned today, when Secretary of the Treasury Mellon approved the purchase of the hospital property of the Central New England Sanitarium Association there.

It was stated that the total expenditure will be $180,000, including the purchase price and construction of the building, which has been under construction for more than a year.

It was originally planned to lease it to the Federal Board for Vocational Education, where service men with incipient tuberculosis were to have been trained. The purchase authorized today is made from the hospital appropriation of the last Congress.

VALERA TO CONSULT DUBLIN LEADERS

Sinn Fein Chief Hopeful as He Goes for Conference on Lloyd George's Proposal

London, July 21.—The Irish peace negotiations have struck an obstacle. A formal communique was issued at Premier Lloyd George's official residence this afternoon, saying that a basis for a formal Irish peace parley has not yet been found.

The communique was issued shortly after Premier Lloyd George had handed to Eamon De Valera the English government's peace offer.

The Central News circulated a report that Premier Lloyd George's proposals were of such a nature that De Valera could not agree to a general conference until he had consulted his colleagues at Dublin.

CONFERS WITH SMUTS.

Following the departure of De Valera, the Premier conferred with General Smuts, the South African Premier; Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, and Winston Churchill, Secretary of State for the Colonies. It was after this meeting that the communique was issued.

De Valera was smiling and cheerful as he returned to his headquarters and indicated that the negotiations were proceeding to his satisfaction.

"The truce in Ireland will continue," said a statement given by De Valera's headquarters to the International News Service this evening. "We are as optimistic as ever. We believe that a solution can be reached."

De Valera will meet a number of friends tonight and all of the Irish leaders will leave for Dublin early Friday morning, carrying Premier Lloyd George's written proposals to Dail Eireann.

The communique issued from the Premier's office follows:

NO ALTERNATIVE OFFER.

"The basis of a formal Irish peace conference has not yet been found. Mr. De Valera has arranged to return to Ireland tomorrow. He will communicate with Premier Lloyd George again after further discussion with his colleagues."

The official statement was agreed to by the Premier and De Valera after lengthy debate at 10 Downing street. It was understood that there was some lively discussion over the exact expressions to be employed.

The Fall Mall Gazette said it had learned that Premier Lloyd George's conditions do not permit De Valera to make an alternative offer.

With the exception of the Tory Morning Post, the morning newspapers did not comment upon the meeting today between Premier Lloyd George and De Valera at No. 10 Downing street.

BITTER PRESS COMMENT.

The Morning Post, which is bitter over the negotiations headed its comment:

"Judas Iscariot Polley." This newspaper described the negotiations "as the greatest betrayal of all."

The Times in taking a more optimistic view of the Irish proceedings, said:

"All that the country asks is that the negotiators proceed without deviation along the lines of King George's speech at Belfast" said the Times in its news article on the Irish developments.

It is likely that General Jan Christian Smuts, Premier of South Africa, will take advantage of the lull in the negotiations, following today's conference, to go to Dublin and Belfast to consult with Republican and Unionist leaders.

Just before the conference today, De Valera received word from Dublin that he had been elected chancellor of the National University of Ireland, a post made vacant by the death of Archbishop Walsh.

Unionists are active in London. About forty leading members of the party have called upon Austen Chamberlain, government spokesman in the House of Commons, to determine what policy the English Unionist party is determined to follow regarding the Irish settlement.

The parliamentary correspondent of the Daily Express was authority for the statement that Premier Lloyd George was empowered to outline to De Valera the maximum amount of power that the Sinn Fein party shall have in administering Irish affairs.

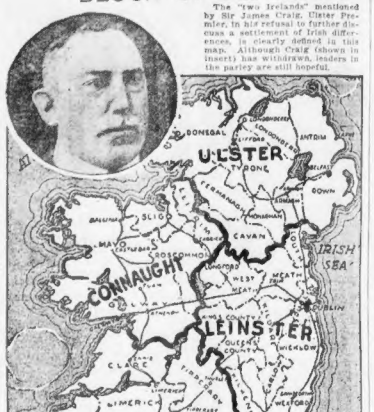
'TWO IRELANDS' STUMBLING BLOCK OF PEACE



The "two Irelands" mentioned by Sir James Craig, Ulster Premier, in his refusal to further discuss a settlement of Irish differences, is clearly defined in this map. Although Craig (shown in insert) has withdrawn, leaders in the parley are still hopeful.

De Valera (insert), on the other hand, has defied Ulster, with the attitude that a small faction of one nation cannot set itself against the expressed demands of the majority. It is pointed out that Craig does not even represent the six counties placed under the northern parliament.

CONNOLLY TELLS OF IRISH CRIPPLE WANTONLY SLAIN

TORTURED IRELAND

By JAMES B. CONNOLLY

Famous New England Author and Journalist.

One of the men who was marked for death was Councillor Michael Crowley of Bantry, County Cork. They went to his house one black night. He was not at home, but he had a crippled brother, Cornelius, so helpless that he could not get out of bed. They killed him instead, emptying their revolvers into his head and breast as he looked up wonderingly at them from his bed.

They caught Councillor John Lynch, a Limerick man, in a Dublin hotel, he being on the run, and murdered him in his bed. Dublin not being within the martial law area at that time, some friends of Lynch at once started a battle to have the truth of this affair brought out at the coroner's inquest, but they were blocked by General Macready, who on the day after the murder issued a pronunciamento which prohibited the civil coroner from holding any inquiry into the cause of Lynch's death.

Later Macready forbade any civil inquiries whatever in Dublin.

They are great people, the English, for talking about the sanctity of the law until it suits their game better to do away with it. Then bing! goes the law.

After such a ruling an order by the All Highest of all the military leaders, the rank and file of the military and police, took fresh heart—they had slacked up a bit before the Lynch murder—and off they went with new speed.

SLAIN BEFORE FAMILIES.

They took Councillor Michael Walsh, who had risked going to his regular place of business in Galway, down to a river dock, shot him through the head and threw his dead body into the river.

James Coleman, a highly revered man of Cork, went next. They killed him with his wife looking on at his home. They seemed to prefer to kill wanted men in the presence of their families when they could manage it that way.) That same day Councillor Reddan of Drogheda was hauled from his office, marched through the city streets and finally shot through the back.

They slipped up on him though. He recovered, as did Councillor Mathews of Skerries, who was given a bullet in the back in the presence of his wife and three more bullets into his body after he had fallen. They surely must have thought they had done him in, but he got well also.

There followed a couple of months when there seemed to be what an I. R. A. man described as "a closed season on Councillors and Aldermen." They turned to people not holding office. They killed seventy-nine of these in the months of December and January last, and you can picture every one of those deaths, men hauled out of bed at night mostly by armed beasts with blackened or masked faces mostly, and then the bullets, and quite often the hayseed gouging at their tortured bodies after the bullets; and the wives and children looking on.

But soon back to the representatives again. They got Alderman Halpin of Drogheda, taking him from his home at midnight, and leaving his dead body to be found outside the city limits in the morning. Then it was Councillor Geoghegan of Galway, leaving his body riddled with bullets to whoever might happen along and find it.

FAILED TO SCARE THEM.

They added a refinement to the killing of District Councillor Sean O'Brien of Charleville,—any man so hopelessly Irish as to take the prename of Sean of course deserved special treatment. They first shot him a few times, and then blew his legs off with a bomb. Six hours of agony was his before he could die.

That last was an example which should certainly teach the rebels to behave, but the rebels were not seem to be cowing them. Very well; that was because they had not got enough of the more important of them. They would intensify the campaign, get them in bunches.

One night last March, at half past one o'clock, they parked a motor lorry on the front door of Lord Mayor O'Callaghan's home in Limerick. Lord O'Callaghan had been raided many times before, and he had been threatened with death so often by the English military that he used to discuss the probability of it with his friends, when and how it would come, and would it be the soldiery or the Black and Tans who would finally get him.

This night Mrs. O'Callaghan, fearing that her husband would be too short spoken with them, went to the door and asked what they wanted. They told her they were a military party and wanted to speak to Mr. O'Callaghan.

RAIDERS IN GOGGLES.

On being assured that there was an officer among them who would be responsible for anything which happened, she opened the door. Two of them entered the house. They wore goggles and false mustaches. She knew of the late issues to the British of goggles, masks and rubber soled boots for night raiding, but the mustaches were something new.

Inside the door they said they were going to take Mr. O'Callaghan away. He at once came downstairs, asking what the charge against him was. Their reply was to open fire upon him, sending him to the floor. Mrs. O'Callaghan then leaped at one of the men and tore the goggles from his face in the hope of identifying him. They beat her and threw her down beside her husband. He died in a few minutes.

The two men went out and within ten minutes there was a knock at the home of ex-Lord Mayor Clancy, who, by the way, lived within 200 yards of the Strand Barracks. Men entered Clancy's home that night in the same way as O'Callaghan's, except that now there were three men wearing goggles.

They demanded that Clancy come with them. Mrs. Clancy asked on what charge. The reply was to open fire on Clancy. Mrs. Clancy threw herself between the men and her husband, who had fallen wounded. The fighting men of Ireland are wonders, but the women of Ireland can match them—high station or low, they always stand ready to die with their men folk. Mrs. Clancy was wounded, but she grappled with the gunmen again. She could not save her husband, however. He also died of his wounds.

Before going to O'Callaghan's they looked in on the home of O'Meara, who was later elected Lord Mayor to succeed O'Callaghan. O'Meara was not at home. After the O'Mearas went to bed that night Crown patrols hung about the O'Meara home, whereupon O'Meara's people turned on all the lights, which action brought into silhouette the figures of the patrols as they passed the lighted windows, and was also a warning to O'Meara, if he should come around, not to try to enter his own home that night.

At midnight that same night they called upon Thomas O'Donoghue, a Gaelic League organizer, and arrested him. An attempt came to more of their own outside they also passed the word: "Don't let him escape." They also announced to the other people in the house: "Any rebels caught in this house tonight will be shot!"

WOMEN WITHOUT TEARS.

They found nothing in the rooms, but in an overcoat pocket of Donoghue's hanging on the wall they found a newspaper printed in Irish. Not one of them could read it, but it was Irish and that was enough.

They took it outside to where O'Donoghue was. Soon the people in the house heard firing. A daylight next morning they found his dead body in the road. He had eight bullet wounds in him. The doctor who examined the body testified that the bullet which went through his head was fired while he was lying on the ground.

Black and Tan Method of Dealing Death, Told by Connolly

They (Black and Tans) added a refinement to the killing of District Councillor Sean O'Brien of Charleville—any man so hopelessly Irish as to take the prename of Sean of course deserved special treatment.

They first shot him a few times, and then blew his legs off with a bomb. Six hours of agony was his before he could die.

That was an example which should certainly teach the rebels to behave, but the rebels were not behaving. The killings did not seem to be cowing them.—From James B. Connolly's "Tortured Ireland."

TRACE SUSPECT IN MURDER TO WORCESTER

Man Wanted in Killing of Manchester, N. H., Woman Seen at Station

Manchester, N. H., July 20.—Peter Metropoulos, wanted by the police of this city, in connection with the stabbing to death of Mrs. Helen Poulis at her home at No. 243 Bell street, last Saturday night, is believed to have gone to Worcester, Mass., and to be in hiding somewhere in that section of the State.

The police were sent an inspector to Worcester, following a report by W. E. Murphy, station agent, at the Hollis, N. H., station, of the Worcester & Nashua Railroad, six miles out of Nashua, that a man answering the description of Metropoulos had purchased a ticket there for Worcester early Monday morning and had taken the train for that city.

Murphy, when later shown a photograph of Metropoulo, positively identified the stranger as the man wanted. His attention was particularly called to the stranger by the fact that in spite of the hot weather, he was wearing a heavy brown overcoat. Metropoulos is known to have had such a coat when he fled the city. He is known to have been in Nashua on the day following the murder, and it was the following morning that the ticket was purchased by the man believed to have been Metropoulos in Rollis.

The man's shoes and clothing gave evidence of a tramp over the road, which leads to the belief that he may have walked from Nashua.

WOMAN ON SICK BED TELLS JUDGE OF DENTIST'S TALKS WITH MAID

'PROMISED TO CARE FOR HER'

Springfield, July 21.—Lying on a sick bed, surrounded by court officials, attorneys and witnesses, Mrs. Lena Slatsky, No. 367 Walnut street, today testified to conversations she had overheard between Dr. Patrick W. McLaughlin and Emma Crowley, his maid, who is suing the dentist.

Mrs. Slatsky was a patient at the Mercy Hospital and occupied a bed next to Miss Crowley. As a material witness for the plaintiff in the suit she was to have testified some time ago, but illness chained her to her bed.

As a consequence Judge Heady announced today that he had decided to hold court at her bedside, and accompanied by the clerk of the court, a stenographer, the attorneys in the case and Dr. McLaughlin, the defendant, he went to the sick woman's home.

Mrs. Slatsky was weak, but her head was clear and she replied to the questions asked in a low, even voice, taking much time to think over her answers.

WORDS OF ENDEARMENT.

She told of having heard Dr. McLaughlin, while visiting Miss Crowley in the hospital, promise to take care of her.

She also testified to expressions of endearment and affection which she said she had heard the dentist use during such talks.

Her testimony was introduced to combat the effects of a letter produced by the defendant's counsel and admitted by the girl, to the effect that she "absolved" Dr. McLaughlin.

Attorneys for the girl say that the doctor influenced Miss Crowley to write the letter in "order that he might have something to show his wife when the crash came."

Stories of chicken suppers in the doctor's home in West Springfield during the absence of Mrs. McLaughlin were told by Miss Crowley in her testimony.

These chicken suppers, she claimed on the witness stand, were proof of the doctor's affection, which she said he manifested whenever his wife was away.

The comely young woman also told of many gifts which she alleged Mc-Laughlin gave her as love tokens. These gifts, she declared, were in the form of money, silk stockings, candy and expensive perfumery.

CLAIM DAIRY WAS FORGED.

A diary which the young woman kept of the chicken and ice cream parties, in which they were the only participants, was produced in court as a part of the evidence.

Brief entries in the diary such as "chicken," "ice cream," and "stockings," the girl interpreted under cross-examination to mean the dates of the suppers and gifts. In some cases there were three or four entries a week.

Counsel for Dr. McLaughlin are endeavoring to show that the diary is a forgery and was written after the girl left the doctor's employ. Under the examination of her counsel, Franklin D. Newell, the girl told of the housemaking which interspersed the suppers.

"Dr. McLaughlin hugged me, kissed me, and told me that he loved me," she testified, "whenever Mrs. McLaughlin's back was turned."

"Was this always at night?" Attorney Newell asked.

'EVAMPED" OTHERS IS CHARGE.

"Not always," answered the complainant, "sometimes he kissed me in the morning, some times in the afternoons, in fact, whenever we were alone."

The names of several business and professional men of West Springfield were injected into the case and from the line of questioning by Attorney James E. Dunleavy, counsel for Dr. McLaughlin, it is apparent that the defense will attempt to show that the young woman had on several occasions tried to "vamp" these men.

According to Dr. McLaughlin these West Springfield men have made affidavits to the effect that the girl had on several occasions made improper suggestions to them.

Miss Crowley denied on the stand that she had ever been unduly friendly with these West Springfield men.

The World's Richest Man and the Golf Stick That Means Longevity

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER.

Dr. Biggar, the Oil King's physician, says that golf may prolong the multi-billionaire's life to the century mark.

ROCKEFELLER 'TO LIVE TO BE 100'

Oil King's Physician Says Golf Will Carry Him Past the Century Mark

Cleveland, July 21.—The prediction that John D. Rockefeller, who recently celebrated his eighty-second birthday, will live to be 100 years old, was made today by Dr. H. F. Biggar, his physician and lifelong friend.

The doctor, who is also eighty-two, looks forward to a golf match with the oil financier when both have rounded out the century mark.

To Dr. Biggar is given the credit for prolonging the life of the world's richest man.

"Mr. Rockefeller has always said he would live to a very old age. He is in better health now than many a man of fifty," said Dr. Biggar. "Anyone who follows his sensible way of living can look to be a centenarian."

Stories that the stomach of the aged master of the world's greatest fortune is too weak for anything except liquid nourishment were branded as false by Dr. Biggar.

EATS MODERATELY.

"Mr. Rockefeller once had indigestion, but he does not suffer from it now," said the physician. "He can eat anything, but he observes one of the prime laws of health and eats moderately. For breakfast he eats cereal, egg and milk. Often I have heard him remark as he arose from the table, 'I could have eaten more.' His good sense in him that moderation in diet is a prerequisite of endurance."

Dr. Biggar modestly disclaims the credit for rejuvenating the richest man in the world.

"I am only one of Mr. Rockefeller's physicians," he said. "As a matter of fact, Mr. Rockefeller has sense enough to remain in excellent health and has profited only indirectly by my professional advice. He has an analytical mind and would have figured it out for himself.

"He lives regularly and simply, and, therefore, wisely. His day runs by schedule. He has a regular hour for golf, a certain time for writing, and so forth.

LIKES VIOLIN MUSIC.

"At dinner, he always surrounds himself by a few congenial friends. After dinner he likes to play with his guests a game called 'Numerics,' it is a mathematical type of game. Mr. Rockefeller believes in aids digestion.

"He retires early and rises early. He likes to hear music at rising and on retiring. Usually some one plays 'old time' tunes for him on the violin.

"Golf has played a great part in conserving Mr. Rockefeller's health," Dr. Biggar continued. "For men over fifty, golf proves a boon. For men under fifty tennis and cricket are best. Horseback riding is another excellent exercise for a man over fifty. Mr. Rockefeller, however, does not indulge in it.

Asked to comment on the short skirts and other "shocking" feminine fashions of the day, Dr. Biggar said: "I think the manner in which the ladies dress nowadays is unobjectionally sound, if only they wouldn't wear corsets."

The doctor added with a sad shake of his head:

"Let them observe deep breathing and discard corsets and they'll be perfect."

MAID WHO LEFT CHILD JAILED FOR THEFT

While Mary Montague, former maid employed by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Clark of Clifton, is confined to the Salem jail awaiting Grand Jury action, the fifteen months' old child she deserted remains in the home the young woman is alleged to have looted.

The ultimate disposition of the little boy is a matter of speculation, as the Clarks and the police believe that the maid is not his mother.

In the meantime the Clarks, who claim to have been robbed of articles valued at between $5,000 and $7,500, are holding the infant while the police seek a home for it.

The former maid, who is twenty-three years old, was arraigned in the Marblehead court before Judge Moses Case and pleaded guilty to larceny. She was held in $2,000 for the Grand Jury in September and was taken to the Salem jail.

According to the police, the woman was employed from Sherborn when she obtained a position at the Clark home on Howell avenue, Clifton. Returning from an outing, Mr. and Mrs. Clark found their house had been ransacked. Expensive evening gowns, furs, men's clothing, jewelry of all sorts, household articles, pillow slips, bureau scarfs, silk petticoats and railroad tickets were missing.

The child, picked for the new maid without success, but locked in the attic they found a fifteen-months-old baby boy. The police were notified, and the Montague woman was arrested.

RICHARD H. LONG AND BRIDE GO TO ALASKA

Honeymoon Trip to Northwest Begun by Millionaire and His Young Wife

Despite a recent statement that they would take no honeymoon trip, Richard H. Long, millionaire Framingham shoe manufacturer, and his stenographer bride have left for Alaska.

Accompanied by two of the shoe man's nephews, the newlyweds departed from the beautiful Long estate in Framingham bound on a sightseeing trip which is expected to take three weeks.

Apparently the change in plans was suddenly decided on, as Mrs. Long informed a Boston American representative on Monday that they would remain in Framingham for some time.

The marriage of Mr. Long, one of the most prominent shoe manufacturers in New England and twice Democratic candidate for Governor, to Miss Laura L. Bousquet, employed in his Worcester office, was a surprise even to members of his own family.

It took place one year and six days after the death of his first wife, who was killed in an airplane accident at Salisbury Beach, leaving six children. Details of the wedding were carefully guarded, the five-day law was waived by a local justice, and the couple were married by a Framingham minister. News of the ceremony did not leak out until the couple had taken up their residence in the Long mansion.

It was then learned that this was not the first marriage for the bride, who, as a matter of fact, was really making her fourth matrimonial alliance, although only thirty-five years old. According to Worcester police Court records, the new Mrs. Long had been granted three divorces, two of them from the same man. In each case she was permitted to resume her maiden name.

PEARL WHITE, FILM STAR, WINS DIVORCE.

Yes, agrees Miss White, they get away with wedded life in the movies. But in actual life she is through with husbands forever. Her first taste of wedded bliss lasted one day. She has now obtained a decree freeing her as the wife of Major Wallace McCutcheon, actor and former army flier.

Pearl White, shapely daredevil of the films, whose blonde beauty and daring have charmed millions of screen followers, is through with marriage.

"I shall never marry again," she said, as she received, after being granted a divorce without alimony from Wallace McCutcheon, former army major, in the Providence Superior Court.

Martinez, according to Miss White, has no place in the bright lexicon of film stars, the artistic and domestic lives failing to blend any more than fire and gasoline.

Although heartbroken by her experiences, according to her own admission, Miss White will bravely smother her emotions and resume her work, convinced that true happiness consists of serving others at a princely salary as a movie star.

"Marriage has meant disillusion," she stated. "It is only in my work, turning my energies to pleasing other people that I can forget my grief.

"At one time I declared that I would never marry. I was afraid the artistic and domestic life would not blend.

"I have been terribly unhappy. I was certain at first that my days were to be spent in Paradise, but the shock of the truth was all the more bitter to me. Then I realized that I was wrong to think of myself alone, and that true happiness was in giving help to others. I shall never marry again."

McCutcheon will in love with a portrait of the film beauty before he had ever seen her, and after a whirlwind courtship in Paris they were married in 1917. He did not contest the suit but was represented at the hearing by counsel, in contrast to his plea for alimony should it be presented he was in the air service during the war.

Neither of the principals appeared in person. Miss White made a decision to a master in chancery, which, with two others, was read to the court. It recited that Miss White married McCutcheon three years ago and that he had failed to support her subsequently. She maintained a technically legal residence here for two years in compliance with the divorce laws.

"Wallie," as Major McCutcheon is known along Broadway, was Miss White's second husband. Her first lower half was Victor Sutherland, a "matinee idol." Their wedded bliss lasted a day. Another woman entered Mr. Sutherland's life after the ouster and Miss White set the divorce mills grinding. That was in 1914.

Miss White returned from Europe a few weeks ago. She admitted that her purpose in visiting France was to establish a residence from which she could sue for divorce. She said:

"There will be a sensation when the name of the woman involved becomes known. I decided long ago to start suit, but delayed until I could reach Paris, where matters can be expedited. Besides, a divorce costs less there than in New York. My domestic troubles in the last two years have caused me nervous depression."

Apparently Miss White changed her mind about a Paris divorce, for six months' residence is required.

NINE COWS PERISH AS BOLT SETS BARN AFIRE

Manchester, N. H., July 21.—A large barn on the farm owned and occupied by Henry Cleveland, in the Thibits Hill section of Goffstown, was struck by lightning during the heavy shower which swept this section of the State and burned to the ground, together with nine cows, a horse, the season's cut of hay and the larger part of the season's crop. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

The barn burst into a sheet of flame immediately after the bolt struck. Lack of water prevented any effort to save the stock.

The storm, although brief, was one of the worst here in years. Trees were blown down, fields leveled and the roads and the streets in this city badly washed. The storm did not break the Bermo welding concern, on Chestnut street, setting fire to the building, which was badly damaged.

FIANCEE LOYAL TO ALLEGED SLAYER

Vigorously denying that her sweetheart, Joseph D'Amarosia, twenty-seven-year-old boy friend, arrested by the police for the murder of Dominico Iuliano, Monday night in West Quincy, is guilty, Frances De Phillippe, eighteen years old, of No. 11A Douglas street, West Quincy, declared that he will be back in time for their wedding next Sunday.

"Joe didn't shoot that man," she said. "We are going to get married next Sunday. Arrangements have all been made with Father Soloway, pastor of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy. Joe will be back in time to get married, I am very sure of that."

TWO MALDEN FACTORIES EMPLOYING 1,250 CLOSE

Twelve hundred employes will be thrown out of work tomorrow when the Conner-Johnson Shoe Company in Malden closes until August 8, when the plant will reopen with a five-day week. Lack of orders and conditions is given as the reason for the closing. The George A. Cox Leather Company closed today for an indefinite period. Fifty persons were employed there. Employes of the Boston Woven Hose manufacturers employing 100 people, reopened today after several weeks' shut down. Both firms are in Malden.

STATE POLICE PROBING $31,000 READING FIRE

State police are investigating the fire in the plant of the Ray Vogel Meat Company in Reading, causing a loss estimated at $31,000. According to the Reading police, they discovered a pane of glass cut out of a rear window. The State fire marshal was notified and State detectives sent to Reading at once. The proprietor of the meat company is Hospit Valkenike, and the building is the property of Edward Welch of Reading.

W. W. MISCHLER TO BE SECRETARY TO TAFT

Washington, July 21.—Chief Justice Taft of the United States Supreme Court today announced the appointment of Wendell W. Mischler as secretary to the Chief Justice. Mischler, whose home is in Cincinnati, has been with Mr. Taft for seventeen years, having served as his stenographer when he was Secretary of War. The Chief Justice also announced the appointment of John Byrne as law clerk.

POOR MOONSHINE JUMPS AMOUNT OF FINE $150

Two weeks ago, Bastiano Alligato of Water street, Wakefield, was found guilty in the Malden Court of selling moonshine. Sentence was withheld, pending examination of the liquor, with the promise that if it proved to be good stuff the fine would be $50, and, if not, $200. Today the results of the analysis before him Judge Sisver found Alligato $200.

BRITAIN TO KEEP ON BUILDING WARSHIPS

Policy Will Be Continued Despite Disarmament Conference, Says Lloyd George

By International News Service.

London, July 21.—The British government will continue the construction of capital warships, despite the disarmament conference, according to a statement made by Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons this afternoon.

Replying to a question from a member, the Premier said it was essential for the government to proceed with the policy of replacing capital ships.

"This is not affected by the possible success or failure of the Washington conference," said Mr. Lloyd George. "Even accepting that the conference is a complete success, it would not remove the government's obligation to build new ships."

The American ambassador, George Harvey, will call on Earl Curzon, the Foreign Secretary, this evening to learn Britain's views regarding a possible preliminary conference for the discussion of Far East questions. The proposal had been made that such a conference be held in London, but it is learned from an authoritative source that America does not view the suggestion with favor.

The foreign office states that no formal proposal has been forwarded to Washington and that so far direct Britain has only sounded the American views on the matter informally.

CHILD SAYS U. S. WILL NEVER ENTER LEAGUE

Rome, July 21.—Richard Washburn Child, the new American ambassador to Italy, who has just arrived from New York via Naples, was quoted by the Exchange Telegraph today as declaring that the United States would never participate in the League of Nations.

The Exchange Telegraph further quoted the American diplomat as saying:

"President Harding's policy towards Europe, especially Italy, is undergoing radical changes."

NAVAL PRISON DROPS OSBORNE 'REFORMS'

Practices Instituted at Portsmouth Eliminated by New Commandant

Portsmouth, N. H., July 21.—All the so-called "prison reforms" introduced by Thomas Mott Osborne, the famous prison expert, into the management of the naval prison at the navy yard here have been wiped off the official slate by the new commandant, Colonel Hamilton D. Smith, United States Marine Corps.

One of Colonel Smith's first official acts was to announce that the Prisoners' Welfare League, instituted by Mr. Osborne, would cease to function immediately and this was followed by an investigation into the condition of the prison, which resulted in the summary lockup up in their cells of eighty-six prisoners, all charged with scandalous conduct.

Although none of the officers attached to the prison guard or administration staff will admit that any of the strange array of talk about the results of the inquiry, they all declared that Osborne's policy of reform has completely broken down and that the State of affairs in the prison under it amounted to a grave scandal.

Osborne took charge of the prison about four years ago and at once proceeded to put into practice some of his prison theories. At the time there were on the prison books the names of more than 2,000 prisoners charged with all sorts of crime running from murder and manslaughter through to perversion and immorality.

There were approximately sixty-five life prisoners and scores sentenced to terms of from ten to thirty-five years. Osborne's first official act was to organize the Prisoners' Welfare League, for which he drew up a constitution that provided that the league should preside the prison guards from among the prisoners themselves, that it should appoint officials from among the prisoners to conduct the prison court for offenses committed inside the prison walls, recommend all punishments for violation of prison discipline and otherwise play a prominent part in the administration.

Furthermore, Mr. Osborne permitted his prisoners to leave the prison and visit Portsmouth and Manchester, to attend theatres and moving pictures in town and to receive women visitors.

As a result of all this and other theories which marine officers characterize as sentimentalism, it is asserted the morale of the prison was completely broken down.

ONLY USABLE CARS SOLD, WAR DEPARTMENT SAYS

Washington, July 21.—The War Department is offering for sale sixty-four surplus motor vehicles, the department announced in response to rumors that Ford runabouts and touring cars are being sold to men in the service and ex-service men at below market price. Less than 10,000 unserviceable vehicles up to July 9, 1921, have been sold. More than 24,000 unserviceable cars have been transferred to other government departments up to that date.

BADLY HURT AS AUTO CRASHES INTO TRAIN

Beverly, July 21.—Sydney Duston of Manchester, N. H., was probably fatally injured today when his automobile crashed into a train of oil tank cars standing on a spur track across Cabot street.

His body was crushed between the steering wheel and the bottom of one of the tanks. At the Beverly Hospital he was found to have fractures of both hips, internal injuries and scalp wounds. His brakes failed to hold.

SUIT AGAINST EX-TREASURER OF PRUDENTIAL

Liquidating Agent Seeks to Have Bailey Held Responsible for Losses

John E. Hannigan, liquidating agent of the Prudential Trust Company, in a bill in equity brought in the Superior Court against William F. Bailey of Needham, former treasurer of the Prudential Trust Company, the Norwood Housing Corporation and the Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Company, is seeking to rech holdings of Bailey and have them applied to his alleged indebtedness to the bank.

It is alleged that Bailey induced the Trust Company to discount two notes purporting to have been made by Samuel Hale and secured by assignment of shares of bank stock. One note was for $1,750 and the other $4,244.75, and the bank advanced on these notes $5,986.10, which amount was taken from the savings department, it is declared.

It is claimed by Mr. Hannigan that Hale was a straw man, and that the real party in the transaction was Bailey. The shares in the ship pledged as collateral are said to be worthless and the notes to be overdue and not collectible.

Through Bailey's influence the Prudential Trust Company is alleged to have made loans to Harry Brown of Medford amounting in the aggregate to $153,968.82 on second and third mortgages on land in Medford and Somerville. Bailey is charged with having received either directly or indirectly from Brown bonuses, fees gifts, benefits or other consideration for his services. These investments resulted in heavy losses to the trust company. It is charged, and it is sought to have Bailey held personally responsible for them.

The Boston Dredging Company, a customer of the trust company, was given credit to the extent of $15,000, but Bailey, without the knowledge of the directors, allowed that company. It is alleged, to draw in all the sum of $216,000. Of this amount $17,000 was taken from the bank's deposit department in violation of the banking laws of the State.

Charles R. Baker, on October 10, 1919, secured a loan of $17,000 on his individual note, which is alleged to be worthless. Bailey, according to the bill, took this money from the savings department and used as collateral shares of the Boston Dredging Company.

Bailey was benefited by the loans made to Baker and the Dredging Company, the bill alleges.

Another allegation against Bailey is that on October 1, 1920, from Morris Cohen of Peabody for loans from the latter.

Bailey, it is stated, is the owner of bonds in the Norwood Housing Association, the value of approximately $100,000. These bonds are said to be held by the Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Company and Mr. Hannigan is endeavoring to have them applied to the alleged indebtedness of Bailey to the Prudential Trust Company.

Bailey in an answer denies the various allegations. The facts are grounded on false. He further says that all the transactions referred to were approved and ratified by John H. Nannes, president of the Prudential Trust Company.

PACKERS MAY INCLUDE GROCERIES IN MEAT CARS

Washington, July 21.—The practice of railroads in permitting ice meat packers to load certain articles of groceries in their "billed" cars with meat, in those cars was upheld by the Interstate Commerce Commission today. The commission decided that it did not constitute undue prejudice to wholesale grocers and other complainants in that class. The matter came before the commission on the complaint of National Wholesale Grocers of the United States.

EVIDENCE IN AUTO CASES IS BARRED AT TUFTS TRIAL

blieged, and she disregarded the advice of friends.

Ultimately, it is alleged, the girl became the mistress of Bigelow. But the romance, like so many lived out in defiance of the laws of society, did not last. A daughter was born to her while she lived in Medford. Somehow, it is alleged, the relations between Bigelow and Grace Farley changed.

From affluence the woman descended to poverty. From poverty she was driven to the Medford poorhouse. There her troubles finally sapped her intellect. She became violent. She turned against her daughter. Her last step was from the poorhouse to the insane asylum.

A secret indictment was returned against Bigelow for his alleged relations with Grace Farley. That was when William J. Corcoran was district attorney of Middlesex.

Attorney-General Allen charges that Tufts failed in his duty in not prosecuting this secret indictment.

Attorney Daniel H. Coakley was counsel for Bigelow in case the indictment was pressed, it is stated. Coakley brought suit to recover a $50,000 fee from Bigelow, and an unusual fact is that his counsel at that time was Henry F. Hurlburt, now special assistant attorney-general and Tufts' prosecutor.

FILED THE STATE.

In the case of "Sir" Thomas Mozette it is charged that after he was arrested on an indictment warrant, Tufts allowed him to go on small bail; that Mozette fled the State, and that Tufts, by setting light bail, aided him to escape the consequences of his acts.

Mozette, it is alleged, victimized Mrs. Justine Gordon, one of the women who had faith in his "psychic" powers, to the tune of $11,000.

Tufts is charged by Allen with failure to prosecute auto cases in Middlesex, and this phase of the prosecution will probably centre about the case of George T. Perry, alleged head of the "ring."

There are many of these auto cases, ranging all the way from driving while drunk to stealing and receiving stolen cars.

Beside these three major cases, there are numerous smaller cases to be wound up before the prosecution finishes its work.

The deposition of Mrs. Benjamin Sewall of Piping, L. I., formerly Mrs. Charles Ingham Sterling of Waltham, is expected to contradict the testimony of her former client, Mrs. Anna Eastman Brown of Brighton, when offered by the defence.

Mrs. Stearns is reported to have given a far different version of the alleged "divorce frolic" at Revere Beach in Tufts' office than that testified to by Mrs. Brown, as will be known when the defence opens Monday.

Counsel for Tufts are expected to serve many counter-surprises, one of the most notable of which will be the sworn statement given by Captain Stearns' former wife at her Long Island home before a commissioner in the presence of Assistant Attorney-General Henry F. Hurlburt and Fletcher Ramsey, senior counsel for Tufts.

At the opening of the trial Attorney-General Allen asked the court for the appointment of a commissioner to go to New York to take the depositions of two witnesses. He said he did not care to divulge the names, but they were persons he expected to be in court.

He added that he had reason to suspect that they were seeking to avoid service.

Both Attorneys Ranney and Johnson for the defence addressed the court. They objected to being left in the dark as to the nature of the testimony.

Chief Justice Rugg asked if the taking of the depositions would result in postponement of the trial. When said it would not and that, furthermore, he would give counsel for Tufts two days' notice of when the depositions would be taken.

The court ordered that a commissioner might be appointed.

First witness was Police Sergeant Joseph H. Beaver of Newton, who testified relative to the case of Dana L. Deshon, Jr., arrested on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

ASKED $50 FINE.

Witness testified: "On the night of June 28, 1920, about 9.30, I arrested Deshon on Commonwealth avenue, Newton Centre. He was in an automobile and was very drunk. I stepped on the running board, shut off his engine and took him to the police station.

He pleaded not guilty in Newton Court, was found guilty and fined $100. He appealed and the case was continued from the August to the September sitting of the court, and I was told that was done because of pressure of business.

The case came before Judge Cox. District Attorney Tufts spoke to the judge at the bench. I was at the bench with him. A fine of $50 was recommended, and Tufts said the man was financially embarrassed and out of work. He recommended that the fine be continued for payment."

Witness stated the district attorney had not previously consulted him as to the seriousness of the offence and that the first he knew this recommendation would be made in the case was when he heard Tufts make it to Judge Cox.

Attorney-General Allen read from the record, showing that the case was filed on payment of $25 as expenses. Witness testified that after he heard Tufts make the recommendation of a fine of $50 he knew of any counter suggestion that the case be filed on payment of $25 as expenses.

MADE BY COURT ORDER.

Attorney Johnson said he would like to call the attention of the court to the fact that in every case disposition was made by order of the court and not by the district attorney.

On cross-examination Sergeant Beaver said that Deshon's automobile was moving at the time he boarded it, and was low speed, and jerking and jumping along.

Beaver was asked whether he testified in the lower court in the Deshon case that the engine was not running when he got on the car. Witness hesitated and said he did not. He said there were two women in the car.

Patrolman Charles C. Pooley of Newton testified as to the arrest of Clement L. Gardner in Newton on December 29, 1920, on the charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Pooley said that at the corner of Walnut and Watertown streets, Newtonville, a touring car driven by Gardner collided with a smaller car. Pooley said he smelled liquor on Gardner, but the man was not staggering.

Attorney-General Allen—Did Gardner offer to fight? A.—No, he was sulky and told me I was doing the wrong thing by locking him up; that he was a good fellow and had influential friends in Lynn. He said I'd lose out if I took him to the police station.

Further evidence showed that Judge Bacon sentenced Gardner to one month in the House of Correction. He appealed.

CASE DROPPED.

Q.—What further happened in the case? A.—I was called to East Cambridge and after waiting around the courthouse an hour was informed that the case would not be called that day. I was told to go home by Inspector Drury of Newton Court.

Q.—Were you ever called to East Cambridge again in connection with the case? A.—No.

Q.—Did anybody ever talk with you after that about the case? A.—No.

Attorney Johnson—Did you at any time talk with Tufts about the case? A.—No.

Q.—So far as you know, did Tufts know such a case existed? A.—No.

Attorney Johnson's line of cross-examination indicated that Tufts' defence in this and similar cases will be that assistants handled the cases.

Walter F. Jenkins was the next witness. He was the complaining Newton policeman in the case of Charles Merrimen, who, in July, 1920, was arrested for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and in such a manner as to endanger the lives of the public.

Witness said that at 1.30 a. m. July 17 a man whose car had been run into complained to him and they went to search for the other car. Witness said two other men were in the car with Merrimen. They paid bonds of $10 each in Newton Court. Merrimen was fined $100 and given two months in the House of Correction. He appealed.

Witness was called to East Cambridge five times in connection with Merrimen's appeal. He was informed on each occasion that the case has been continued. Records showed that Merrimen changed his plea to guilty and that he has not yet been sentenced.

TUFTS WINS POINT.

In this and other cases testimony was developed when it appeared that the assistant district attorney, not Tufts himself, handled matters.

The case of Thomas N. Norton was called up. Norton, in October, 1920, was arrested for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Attorney Johnson arose and pointed out that Tufts knew nothing of the case; that it was handled by one of his assistants.

Huriburt—Do I understand that Tufts repudiates the acts of his assistants? Chief Justice Rugg said "unless the prosecution expects to bring home these cases to Tufts the court will not hear the testimony."

Captain Patrick J. Hurley of the Cambridge police and Henry F. Ramhofer of Cambridge, assistant treasurer of the Charles River Trust Company, testified regarding the case of John Adams, alias William J. Downey, who was charged with assault on an employe of the trust company and an attempt to commit larceny from the bank in April, 1919.

According to the testimony and the statement of Allen, William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, replaced Attorney Edward Counihan when the case reached the Superior Court.

It appeared that the defendant defaulted. No action was taken for a year after he was indicted and Attorney-General Allen said that a copies was at present in the hands of the Boston police for Downey's apprehension.

CONSPIRACY CASE.

The court took up the allegation concerning the case against Charles Weisberg, Benjamin Soloman, Carl Rudnick and Joseph Rudnick, charged with conspiracy to burn a dwelling house in Newton.

There is a further charge that Solomon and Joseph Levine conspired to defraud the Queen Insurance Company. Tufts is charged with failure to prosecute, from improper motives.

State Officer Frank Hale of Dorchester, who has charge of investigation of fires, testified that on March 23, 1916, a house numbered 674 Centre street, Newton, was partly destroyed by fire.

He found when he investigated that the walls had been torn so that inflammable material soaked in turpentine could be stuffed in. He found that Victor Neal, real estate agent, had given Joseph Levine an option on the property and that Levine had deposited $100 on a note.

Lawrence Woman Forced to Leave Home, She Says; Asks Separate Support

Lawrence, July 21. — Charges brought by Mary E. Young against her policeman husband in a petition for separate support, heard before Judge Harry H. Dow, in Probate Court here created wide local interest. The accusation was made by the petitioner that Edward Young, her husband, and a police officer here, had attacked her while he was under the influence of liquor. She said that as a result of the treatment she received from him she was forced to leave home.

A number of witnesses for the respondent declared they had been much in his company, but had never seen him intoxicated. On the stand Young admitted that he did take a drink of beer and even of whiskey but he never drank to excess.

He admitted that on one occasion Captain Charles H. Vose and Sergeant Kilpatrick of police headquarters had been called to his home by his wife. He admitted that he had broken a window in the house when his wife refused to open the door, which had been locked against him.

293,386 KEEP UP WAR RISK INSURANCE

Converted and Reinstated Policies Represent Commuted Value of $1,000,702,500

Washington, July 21.—Approval of 293,386 applications for converted and reinstated government life insurance, covering a commuted value of $1,000,702,500, was announced by Director Forbes of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance.

Under a recent order of the Treasury Department, a veteran may reinstate or convert his insurance any time prior to next January, regardless of how long he has been discharged from service. If reinstatement is made within three months after lapse of his wartime policy, physical examination is waived.

Twenty-year endowment policies are most in demand by the veterans, 129,421 being in force. Twenty-payment life is second, with 86,822 policies. The average policy for the six classes of insurance issued is for $3,332.

Of insurance so converted, $2,878,- 203 already has been awarded in meeting claims.

UNION IN LAWRENCE FIGHTS APPOINTMENT

Lawrence, July 21. — Counsel for the Bricklayers' Union of this city entered protest to the local city government against the appointment of John M. Garvey as inspector of the new elementary school here on the ground that he does not possess the necessary qualifications for the job. The attorneys in their written protest ask that Mayor White bring the matter before the city solicitor for an opinion. The law claimed to have been violated relates to a three-year team of practical experience required of appointees to such positions.

Revenue Cutters to Seek Supply Source of Floating Bar

By International News Service.

Washington, July 21.—Prohibition Commissioner Haynes today sought the aid of the revenue cutter service in clearing up the mystery surrounding the alleged operations of liquor ships off Long Island, N. Y. Haynes arranged to have the assistance of revenue cutters in an effort to detect ships which are reported to have landed whiskey cargoes on New York and Connecticut shores, which, according to the report, were later transferred to a floating saloon outside the three-mile limit off Long Island.

There is no violation of the Volstead law, officials said, in operation of a floating bar outside of the three-mile limit. Haynes' investigation is to determine whether the alleged floating bar is made possible by supplies regularly furnished from American shores.

SCORES FAIL TO MEET TESTS FOR DEVENS

Many Applicants Are Proving Physically Unfit, Says Recruiting Head

"What's the matter with the physical condition of many young men in New England?"

This is the question being asked by Colonel Alfred Aloe, in charge of recruiting for the First Corps Area, of the Citizens' Military Training Camp, which will open August 1 at Camp Devens.

Already 2,500 applications have been made for this camp, while the quota for this year is 1,200. Many who have already been examined have proved practically unfit for the training. "This condition causes me to ask the question about the future of the physical condition of young men of New England.

"This camp is military in discipline, but it will also build on the physical bodies of young men," claimed the colonel. "Never was there so great a need for such a camp as this when we are told of how many young men in the prime of young manhood are physically unfit for the training which it is proposed to give them.

"Many parents will be sorry to hear that their boy has been rejected for this camp. But no young man who is physically unfit can qualify for what this camp exacts. What I can say to the young men of New England is—take an interest in athletics; get plenty of outdoor exercise; know how to box; to carry yourself; to stand erect and to build up your strength, so that you will have a good pair of lungs and your heart will testify that it is not leaking."

TANGLE IN LAW MAY AID HELD IMMIGRANTS

By Universal Service.

Washington, July 21.—The Bureau of Immigration is confronted with the fact that the Johnson Immigration Act cannot be literally enforced.

This is shown by the fact that 158 immigrants from Greece, Turkey and Palestine, who have come to the United States in excess of the quotas permitted for July, must be allowed to land because no ship is available to take them away until August 5.

As they cannot be deported before the beginning of a new month, Commissioner of Immigration Husband holds they will be entitled after August 1 to consider themselves admissable under the August quotas.

Mr. Husband sought a ruling from the State Department to permit these immigrants to land provisionally. Unless otherwise decreed, they will be admitted after August 1.

Authorities at Ellis Island appealed to Mr. Husband for a ruling in the case.

ASKS $6000 TO BRING UP BOY OF 14

New York Biscuit Maker Wants Three-Fifths of Income From Wife's Estate

New York, July 21.—It costs $6,000 a year properly to bring up a fourteen-year-old boy, according to Thomas J. McLoughlin, an employe at a biscuit company at No. 139 Avenue A. Mr. McLoughlin made this estimate when he asked Surrogate Cohalan as guardian for his fourteen-year-old son, David, for three-fifths of the income from the boy's estate of $18,000.

This would provide for the boy's support, education, etc., for the next three years, Mr. McLoughlin declared, as attached to his petition. Mr. McLoughlin had an itemized list of the expenses that go to make up the $6,000 a year. Among them are:

$600 for a Summer vacation.
$300 for spending money.
$250 for amusements.
$25 for church and charities.
$18 for ice skates and running shoes.
$40 for athletic goods, baseballs, bats, gloves, etc.
$200 for American Institute of Applied Science for music lessons.
$10 for tuning of piano.

Surrogate Cohalan appointed Joseph McCloskey as referee to examine the petition.

McLoughlin stated that he had been separated for years from his wife, who died on April 4 last, leaving the boy a trust estate, which includes an elevator apartment at No. 258 Central Park West, valued at $250,000. It is three-fifths of the income from this apartment that is petitioned for.

During the lifetime of his wife, McLoughlin stated, the boy lived with her at No. 53 West Seventy-second Street and enjoyed many luxuries. He was a student at La Salle Institute, and during the Summer camped with his mother at Cayuga Lake.

McLoughlin said he lived in a furnished room during this time. When his wife died, he stated, his income of $40 weekly from the biscuit company was insufficient in maintaining the boy in any of the comforts he formerly enjoyed.

ANTI-LYNCHING PLAN IS LEGAL, HOUSE TOLD

Washington, July 21.—Passage of law permitting Federal intervention where mob violence threatens to defeat justice is in line with constitutional precedent, Assistant Attorney General Guy D. 9 COWS PERISH AS BOLT SETS BARN AFIRE

Crops Levelled, Trees Blown Down by Severe Storm in New Hampshire

Manchester, N. H., July 21.—A large barn on the farm owned and occupied by Henry Cleveland, in the Tibbits Hill section of Goffstown, was struck by lightning during a heavy shower which swept this section of the State, and burned to the ground together with nine cows, a horse, the season's cut of hay and the larger part of the farming tools. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

The bam burst into a sheet of flames soon after the bolt struck. Lack of water prevented any effort to subdue the fire.

The storm, although brief, was one of the worst here in years. Trees were blown down, crops leveled and the roads and the streets in this city badly washed in places. A bolt struck the Berno Welding concern, on Chestnut street, setting fire to the building, which was badly damaged.

For some time this church has rented the largest auditorium room for secular films. It is now planned to make the films a prominent agent every Sunday in some practical way of illustrating a biblical truth.

SMALL CLAIMS TO BE ABOVE JUDICIARY

Illinois Governor, Accused of Theft, Defies Prosecution. Bench Warrants Issued

By International News Service.

Springfield, Ill., July 21.—Governor Len Small, central figure in the greatest political sensation in Illinois' history, stands today on the position that he, as the State's chief executive, is above jury, warrant or any agency or instrument of the judicial branch of government.

It is a situation which might result in the calling out of State troops.

An opinion, now signed by former Congressman James M. Graham and George Gillespie of Springfield, and expected to be signed before noon by former Governor Joseph W. Fifer of Bloomington, holds that the Governor owes a duty to the State and the government to hold himself above the authority of the Sangamon County officials.

Governor Small, through his lawyers, will communicate it to Judge E. S. Smith in the next few hours and ask that the court withhold warrants.

But bench warrants already have been issued by Circuit Court Clerk Cohen and are in the hands of Sheriff Henry Mesick, despite the fact that Judge Smith yesterday decided that no process should issue on the grand jury indictments until he had heard from the Governor.

If Judge Smith overrules the contentions of the Governor's lawyers or if the sheriff proceeds to serve the warrants forthwith, State Troops to protect the Governor would then be possible.

THIEVES ROUTED AFTER LOOTING FREIGHT CAR

Flee in Auto Truck, Leaving Booty Behind at West Lynn

A bold attempt to rob a Boston & Maine freight car in the West Lynn yards was frustrated today, and the thieves were compelled to flee empty-handed in an auto truck after they had collected thousands of dollars worth of merchandise.

The men, who were pursued by another car, made their escape by speeding toward the West Lynn marshes. The merchandise, consisting of cigars, cigarettes and tobacco, was recovered.

After the goods were taken from the car a quantity was cached in nearby hiding places, and the remainder was piled on the ground, on the watch for them.

Crap Game in Church Has Sequel in Juvenile Court

New Bedford, July 21.—Prayerful entreaties, which lacked a spiritual flavor, floating from the Sunday school of the Howard Methodist Episcopal Church here, caused Patrolman O. J. Cox to investigate.

He found William J. Sadler, Jr., of No. 973 Kempton street, and Harry Hendrickson, Jr., of No. 419 North street, sons of prominent members of the congregation, intent on "galloping dominoes," or shooting crap, as it is more commonly known. There was 35 cents in the game.

In the Juvenile Court Judge Millikon fined the youths $5 each and ordered that they earn the money.

ANGLO-FRENCH RELATIONS STRAINED

Differ on Calling Council to Deal With Silesia—France Fears Polish-German War

London, July 21.—An acute international situation, involving the possibility of a side-open breach between Great Britain and France and the threat of war between Germany and Poland, grew out of the Upper Silesia issue today.

The strain on the Anglo-French relations was emphasized by the vigorous exchanges of notes between Paris and London during the last 24 hours.

France insists that there is danger of a new war combination in the East over the Upper Silesian question, but instead of agreeing to an immediate meeting of the supreme council urged by Premier Briand, it is maintaining a hostile attitude towards Poland. Premier Briand's reply to the British note asking for an immediate meeting of the supreme council was transmitted to the Foreign Office this afternoon by the French ambassador.

M. Briand said that he needed a vacation and could not attend a meeting of the supreme council before the middle of the month. He suggested that experts examine their study of the Silesian question in the meantime.

Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary, is refusing to accept the French viewpoint. It is understood that he will immediately make a formal protest to Paris against further delay in summoning the Supreme Council.

BROOKLINE TAX RATE RAISED 60 CENTS

New Assessment Is $17.90 on a Thousand; Valuation Increases Five Millions

The Brookline assessors have announced that the tax rate for the coming year will be $17.90 on the thousand, an increase of 60 cents over last year. The total valuation of the town shows an increase of more than five million from last year's valuation.

The increased tax rate is chiefly due to the fact that the town has received $60,000 less from income taxes the past year. The heaviest increase is the county tax, which is $40,000 more than last year.

The total taxes to be raised by the town are $2,909,762.46, but income taxes received from the State, poll taxes and estimated taxes brings the total to be raised by taxation down to $1,858,887.30.

Other taxes are as follows: town expenses, $2,520,132.67; county tax, $154,851.89; State tax, $250,010; Metropolitan Sewer tax, $89,811.63; Metropolitan Park, $53,173.85; Metropolitan smoke, $466.32; Metropolitan Fire Prevention, $592.95; Charles River Basin, $11,317.95; State tax (soldiers' bonus), $11,788.60; overlay, $15,000.

Income tax received from the State, $454,385.95; estimated receipts, $477,421.14; $129 poll taxes, $18,258.

The total valuation of the town is $103,180,300, of which $94,613,400 is the real estate valuation, and $14,566,500 is the personal valuation.

CAR OWNER'S FIRST DUTY TO FAMILY, JUDGE WARNS

Holyoke, July 21.—If care of a family interferes with the maintenance of an automobile, neglect the family. This was the attitude of Joseph Raymond, but Judge Hildreth in the District Court impressed on Raymond the fact that a man's first duty was to his family. Raymond was found guilty of non-support, after admitting that the biggest part of his $25 salary went into his car. The case was continued one week.

HUNDREDS OF JOBLESS ARE BECOMING PEDDLERS

Forced out of productive employment by the business depression, hundreds of men, including war veterans, have taken up hawking and peddling to earn a living. The annual report of Director of Standards Francis Meredith shows that 1,946 licenses were granted during the year. Of that number, seventy-nine per cent licenses went to disabled veterans.

SENTENCES AFFIRMED IN EMERSON MOTORS CASE

New York, July 21.—The conviction and sentence of three alleged ringleaders of the notorious Emerson Motors Company flotation five years ago was reaffirmed by a unanimous decision of the judges of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The three men are Nicholas Field Wilson, Robert P. Matches and William A. Loomis, and were found guilty of using the mails to defraud. A number of Boston men were involved in the case.

CITY LIGHT PLAN URGED BY PHILADELPHIA MAYOR

Philadelphia, July 21.—Municipal operation of the privately owned Philadelphia gas works was suggested by Mayor Moore of this city in an effort to prevent illuminating gas costs from rising higher.

The mayor's suggestion was in answer to the statement of Samuel T. Bodine, president of the United Gas Improvement Company to the effect that the company might refuse to pay its rental to the city if denied the proposed rate increase.

VASTNESS OF PAGEANT IS INSPIRING

Stunning Pictures on Plymouth's Outdoor Stage, With Marvelous Lighting

By FRED J. MacISAAC.

A dramatic spectacle on a scale so big as the tercentenary pageant at Plymouth disarms criticism by its vastness. It simply could not be belittled, did one wish to do so. As the great scene unfolded itself last night under the moon in Plymouth on the shore alongside the historic rock, I was more and more impressed at the grandeur of the idea and the magnificent way in which it was developed.

To Professor George P. Baker, who had the courage to conceive such an immense spectacle, great praise is due. And it is likely that his close proximity to such a big thing caused him to lose his sense of proportion, for, compelled to cut out certain scenes in order to shorten the pageant, he omitted the landing of the Pilgrims. Think of it — Plymouth, at Plymouth Rock, a solid substantial Mayflower in the harbor, the descendants of the Pilgrims as actors, and the landing on Plymouth Rock omitted.

Aside from this ghastly elision, it was a remarkable show, though the big half hour seemed were so artificialectical compared to the preceding ones, that Professor Baker would have merely crystallized a drama student at Harvard if he had turned in a play that petered out so.

MARVELOUS LIGHTING.

Most marvelous was the lighting, as many as fifty searchlights illumined the field. Never was outdoor show so lighted before, because never did any other show have money for such an equipment.

Music was supplied for the scenes by Henry F. Gilbert, Edward B. Hill, Edgar Stillman Kelley, Frederick S. Converse, Leo Sowerby, Chalmers Clifton, George W. Chadwick, Arthur Foote and John Powell. I thought that Mr. Gilbert wrote graphically and eloquently for the early pantomime scenes, and that George W. Chadwick wrote a song for Pilgrim women which was suave. I thought that the music of the other composers was a bit equally poverty stricken in musical ideas.

Regarding the action of the pageant there were three or four very stunning pictures on the vast stage. The early visitors to Plymouth, the Norsemen in their war galley, the Dutch, French and English adventurers—these scenes were done rapidly and effectively. The procession of King James coming down from Edinburgh to London was a flaming spectacle, brilliant in the extreme, and the dialects of the Dutch cities gave a chance for a nocturnal ballet which was unusual and picturesque.

The Pilgrims themselves poorly to pageant, Professor Baker makes them talk so much. Perhaps he has to, but talk in the open air loses its importance. Acoustics were fairly good, but the speaking was not impressive.

SKIPPED THE LANDING

The Pilgrims had their big moment when they landed on the rock. Prof. Baker worked up to it for 180 hours and then he skipped it. David Belasco would have died before he would have cut that scene.

The actors were all amateurs and they were all good. There was the true heroism, because the field was so muddy that any fast ball team would have refused to play on it, yet they danced and marched and knelt and prayed in the goo.

The lighting was managed marvelously, credit to Munroe Pevear, and the music was well managed by Chalmers Clifton and George Dunham. There were too many excellent actors to distinguish any.

Says He Was Held Up

New Bedford, July 21—His right arm and side badly bruised, Felix Padiawski of No. 19 Bullard street told the police his injuries were inflicted by three holdup men. He said he was attacked by the men after they had rifled his pockets and found nothing.

Peterson's Ointment Best for Eczema

First Application Stops Itching of Eczema, Salt Rheum and Piles.

Ends Chafing Distress in Five Minutes.

"Live and die if it means much," says Peterson of Buffalo. "Druggists all over America sell PETERSON'S OINTMENT for 35 cents a large box and I say to them druggists, if anyone buys my ointment for any of the diseases or ailments for which I recommend it, and is not benefitted, give them their money back.

"I've got a safe full of thankful letters testifying to the mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment for sore and running sores, eczema, salt rheum, ulcers, sore nipples, broken breast, chafing scalp, chafing and blind, itching and bleeding piles.

John Scott, 243 Virginia Street, Buffalo, writes: 'Your Ointment is simply wonderful. It cured me of eczema, and also piles, and in all it acted quickly that I was astonished.'" Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

HUB WINS FIRST CLEAN-UP PRIZE

Leads All Cities in New England; Silver Cup Presented to Mayor Peters

Boston was the winner of the first prize for cleanliness in this year's clean-up campaign of the cities of New England, and the trophy, a silver cup standing 23¾ inches high, was presented to Mayor Peters at a meeting in the old aldermanic chamber in City Hall.

The presentation speech was made by Thomas H. Thibodeau, chairman of the Boston cleanup committee. The committee of award comprised Herman A. McDonald, former mayor of Beverly and secretary to Governor Cox; Horace A. Carter, president of the Massachusetts State Chamber of Commerce; and Frank W. Whitcher, past president of the Massachusetts State Chamber of Commerce.

Thibodeau paid tribute to the members of the cleanup committee, the boy scouts, school children and teachers, city officials and department heads, saying they had labored tirelessly to win the prize for Boston and had succeeded against great handicaps, not the least of which was the fact that some Boston districts are as large as whole cities that were in the competition.

Mayor Peters praised the civic spirit of the campaigners, saying:

"You cannot make for democratic government by legislation or by anything else except the will of the people, and it is the will of the people upon which we must rely to have a better standard of civic life in all of our cities.

"Cleanliness is a very important essential. We have it in our homes and offices, but we must apply the same idea in our municipality. Unclean cities signify a lowering of the standards of the people.

"We desire clean public places, a smart municipal appearance which means clean streets, clean alleyways and backyards. But, more than that, we must have clean and wholesome ideals as a city, an appreciation of right and wrong and a determination to be a truly representative American city."

The cup must be won three times to become the property of the city. From time to time it will be used in public schools as an aid in the teaching of city cleanliness.

ROXBURY WOMAN FATALLY STRICKEN

Friedarika Beck, seventy-six years old, of No. 19 Warren place, Roxbury, was taken ill in the Forest Hills Elevated station today and removed to the city hospital, where she died of heart trouble. She was on her nearest relative Rev. Edward L. Miller, Hotel Putnam, Warren street, Roxbury.

Disguised Policeman Purchases Liquor; Jails Seller

Vincent Blasi, thirty-six years old, who conducts a barber shop on Centre street, Jamaica Plain, was arrested by Mounted Patrolman Roy Varnum and other policemen of the Jamaica Plain station after he had made a sale of liquor to Varnum, according to the police. The police say Blasi has been under suspicion for some time, but efforts to prove anything against him proved futile.

Finally Varnum, in citizen's attire, made arrangements for the purchase of liquor. He handed Blasi a $5 bill and received a bottle in return. At this point other policemen, concealed in the nearby box office building, rushed out and Blasi was taken into custody. He will be arraigned in court today.

MISS MacSWINEY RAPS DOMINION RULE IN ERIN

"No Compromise" Address to Detroit Convention of A. O. H. Loudly Cheered

Detroit, Mich., July 21—"There will be no compromise. They talk about dominion home rule. I want to say to you that the MacSwiney family did not go through the crucifixion of Britain for dominion home rule, but they did go through it for the Irish republic."

Tremendous cheering greeted this opening remark of Miss Mary MacSwiney, sister of the martyred Mayor of Cork, when she addressed a joint session of the Ladies' Auxiliary and the A. O. H. in the Statler Hotel here. "You know where all this home rule is going to end," continued Miss MacSwiney, "but Mr. De Valera told Lloyd George that London was not the place to meet Irishmen in but that such a peace conference dealing with Ireland should be held in Ireland.

"Then Lloyd George extended an invitation to Mr. De Valera to meet him in London, as the representative of the Irish people, and in such worded invitation Lloyd George has recognized the Irish Republic."

The first "business day" of the convention of both the A. O. H. and the Ladies' Auxiliary was devoid of reports of action. It was reported that the entire national list of officers will be re-elected at tomorrow's meeting.

There is a great fight to be made on the board of directors and in that personnel there will be a shake-up.

The convention will levy an assessment to help raise the $100,000 needed to erect a monument in Washington at Mt. Rhode Island and Connecticut avenues, to the memory of the nuns and sisters of eleven Catholic orders who served as nurses on the battlefields during the Civil War and other wars of this country.

IT BEATS ANYTHING HE EVER SAW, SAYS FREIRE

Boston Man Had Suffered for Years From Stomach Trouble, Nervousness and Loss of Sleep, but Feels Fine Now.

"Tanlac was helping my wife so much that I started taking it myself although I have never suffered my first bottle I am ready right now to speak up and tell what I think of it," said Jos. Freire, 35 Clark St., Boston, today. Mr. Freire has lived in Boston for twenty years and is a fireman employed by the Edison Electric Illuminating Co.

"I had suffered from stomach trouble, nervousness and loss of sleep for years. It was almost afraid to eat. Why, after every meal I was in misery, and the cramping pains were just about all I could stand. My stomach would turn sour, and often I would belch up undigested food by the hour at a time. My nerves kept me in such a strain all the time that I was sudden and easily excited and couldn't sleep more than half the night. Then, in the morning I felt weak and dead tired and just had to force myself off to work.

"Well, sir, Tanlac just suited my case exactly. Why, I never saw anything like it. I felt like a different man and have taken Tanlac only about ten days. But, say, I can like I'm making up for lost time and, with my wife well and strong and eating like she ought, our grocery bill has nearly doubled. Nothing hurts me and my stomach seems to be all right. I sleep fine, I'm never troubled and I sleep fine. In fact, Tanlac has helped me in every way and in my opinion there is not a medicine in the world that can compare with it."

The food people eat does them absolutely no good unless they digest it properly. When your suffer from indigestion and other forms of stomach trouble the food does you harm instead of good, because food which is not digested soon ferments in the stomach and ferments causing pains, swelling, gas on the heart, shortness of breath, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness and many other disagreeable symptoms. If this condition is permitted to run for any indefinite period the entire system becomes saturated with poisons and various complications are apt to result.

Mr. Freire's trouble was relieved by Tanlac, simply because it toned up his vital organs and enabled him to digest his food properly. In fact, there is no portion of the body that is not benefited by the Tanlac action of Tanlac which begins its work by stimulating the digestive and assimilative organs. Nobody can enjoy fine blood and invigorating the whole system. Next, it enables the weak, worried, starved, thoroughly digest its food, permitting the nourishing elements to be converted into blood, bone and muscle.

Tanlac is distributed by International Proprietaries, Inc., and sold in Boston by Liggett's drug stores.—Advertisement.

JOB PRUNING IS NEEDED AT CAPITAL

awes Must Use His Hatchet if Efficiency Is to Be Introduced

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.

ecial American Staff Correspondent.

Washington, July 21.—A certain oung man in the British embassy re wears a five and a half hat. ank P. Walsh, officially representing the Sinn Fein government in this country, applied for visa of a passport some time ago, stating that he wished to sail on a ship leaving July 18.

Again and again he was informed that he had not been decided finally, after the ship had sailed, the oung man with the five and a half- ch hat told him the cable had been ent only the day before.

Mr. Walsh informed the young man, ith condensed energy, what he thought.

The young man reminded Mr. Walsh that the British government ad the right to grant or refuse a ise.

Mr. Walsh reminded the young an that any citizen had the right o free his mind.

But not knowing whether our ve-and-a-half friend told the ruth, I do not know whether the olly was committed in London or in Washington.

CALLS FOR SUBSERVIENCE.

Although I am fully conversant with the follies of governments, I prefer to attribute this particular imbecility to the five-and-a-half young man.

But then, why do governments employ five-and-a-half young men? They always do.

I think the explanation lies in the rife. What are the qualifications required of a young man making the highest decision to enter the diplomatic service of his country?

First, he must have an income.

Second, he must know how to enjoy a drawing room.

Third, he must give dinner and lunch parties, dance and play bridge.

Fourth, he must pass an examination.

Once in the service, he learns that the important thing is to have no opinions of his own. Stand well with the men who have grown old in the service from semi-boyhood, cultivate snobbishness, postpone decisions and do not work.

HIGHER WAS POWERLESS.

It is an open secret that Presidents and Secretaries find these bureaucracies difficult to deal with.

When Mr. Hughes landed in his office he found that the bureaucrats had gotten together, as soon as the Presidential election was decided, and made their own plans for the distribution of the plunder, just as if the advent of the Secretary of State were negligible.

Mr. Hughes was angry when he awoke to the situation, but he was powerless. Most Presidents and Secretaries soon drift into letting the bureaucracies run everything except the high lights.

President Roosevelt was an exception. He put a special man of his own, whom he could trust, in a key position in each department; that man kept him informed of what was going on; and when it became necessary to butt in, the Colonel butted in.

When an energetic cabinet officer tries to clean out a few clerks, or shuffle them around, he finds them protected by all sorts of legislation passed by Congress for the special purpose of taking care of the job market.

DAWES MUST SWING AXE.

For example, it is provided by law that certain unimportant little jobs in the departments shall be divided equally among States.

Of course, not many are likely to come on from Oregon to get a job paying $1,800 a year, but Maryland and Virginia, being next door, offer a natural supply.

What is to be done? The places are filled "temporarily," and the incumbents are pushed around from one job to another to make way for their temporary successors. This process offers a chance to take care of anybody who is an humble friend of a less humble friend of a Senator. General Dawes' job is to introduce efficiency into the departments. If he is to succeed, his first step should be to take his hatchet up to Capitol Hill.

Music Recital on North Shore a Notable Event

MISS EDITH SIGOURNEY

An event which is expected to attract the most important of the social lights along the North Shore takes place this afternoon when Mlle. Germaine Cossini renders her musical reading at the Beverly Cove estate of Dr. and Mrs. Henry F. Sears. Mlle. Cossini will give a series of these affairs, which are terms her "musical adaptation of modern poems," and needless to say, the subscription list boasts both quantity and quality. Dr. Sears and his wife, by the way, have recently returned from a trip to France.

The most interesting charity event of the entire North shore season is the long-heralded Navy Festival tomorrow at Pingree Field, Wenham. The committee in charge, headed by Alvin F. Beardwell, has planned a decidedly entertaining program for the day. There will be all kinds of booths displaying antiques, candy, flowers, cigarettes, "grabs", infants' and children's wear, Naval Hospital booth, farm products, "nation-al" refreshments and what not. Besides, the bazar a leading attraction will be the horse show in charge of Nell Rice. In the evening the "cabaret" show and dancing at Horticultural Hall, Manchester, will draw many of the younger set. At the cabaret several of the best features from this year's Vincent Club and Harty Pudding shows will be presented. Provided the weatherman is kind, the proceeds from the fete will be very large.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Whitehall of Boston were guests at a dinner at Newport given recently by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence T. Paul in honor of Prince and Princess Lubomirski of the Polish Legation. Other guests included Mrs. Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Brown, Mrs. Frederick Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Shafter Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Peyton J. Van Rensselaer and Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Wilson.

Newport, by the way, has been enjoying a lobster strike, which strongely enough, afforded the Summer colony no end of fun. It seems that the lobster fishermen struck a few days ago against the wholesalers and sold their wares themselves. Whereat Dame Society, ever anxious for a new thrill, promptly decided to patronize the lobster stands, and each day a long line of machines was parked at Long Wharf. However, the fun is all over now, as the lobstermen gave in.

I note that Mrs. Thomas H. Barber is a member of the advisory committee for the Fifteenth Annual Exhibition of the Southampton Horticultural Show to be held at the Southampton Grounds on August 2, 3 and 4. Mrs. Barber is the daughter of Mrs. Roger Hooper of Beacon street, who with her husband is visiting Mrs. Barber on Long Island.

The Eastern Yacht Club will have a band concert tonight at its Marblehead clubhouse. This club will have regular weekly band concerts on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Mrs. John Nicolas Brown of Providence, who has just Winter-ized her home at No. 181 Commonwealth avenue, in order to be with her son, who is studying at Harvard, is among the society matrons who voiced their opinions against using Wellington Park, Newport, as an air field. Mrs. Brown is, of course, one of the most prominent members of the Newport Summer colony.

METHODISTS BUY DORCHESTER LAND

The trustees of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Dorchester Lower Mills, have purchased the Brown estate in Washington street, Dorchester, for the purpose of erecting a new community house. The new community house will include a gymnasium, clubrooms, and a social hall. The land is occupied by three dwelling houses, but they will not be torn down while housing conditions remain acute.

JORDAN TO HALE SODA DEALERS INTO COURT

Pure Food Head to Prosecute Those Selling Poor Standard of Ice Cream

One hundred inspectors sent out by the Boston Health Department to investigate the prices of ice cream cones and sodas will continue their work until a complete report can be turned in.

In the meantime, Dr. James O. Jordan, head of the department's pure food division, proposes to hale into court all dealers who sell ice cream and sodas below the legal standard.

A general roundup of such offenders is now under way. In Municipal Court Judge Dowd fined numerous dealers doing business in the downtown districts, the fines totalling between $100 and $500.

The State Board of Health is supplementing the work done by the Boston board, investigating the quality of ice cream and sodas sold in towns and cities throughout the Commonwealth.

Many dealers have begun the sale of ice cream cones for a nickel.

Chairman Eugene C. Hultman of the Commission on the Necessities of Life threatens to take drastic action against dealers who refuse to answer his queries regarding the prices they charge for ice cream cones and sodas.

SCHOONER GOES AGROUND IN HARBOR

The Flora L. Oliver Stranded While Returning From Fishing Banks

The fishing schooner Flora L. Oliver, inbound from the fishing banks, ran on Long Island Head in the lower harbor today.

She is in no immediate danger, and a tug from the city is standing by, ready to make an attempt to haul her into deep water at high tide.

The schooner is believed to have grounded shortly after midnight in the rain and mist that obscured the lower bay at that time, but was not discovered until daylight, when she was sighted from the quarantine station and assistance sent to her.

Much difficulty is expected in floating her as she was almost high and dry as low water and the rise of the tide at this season is less than ten feet.

The stranded vessel is almost in the path of the Nantasket boats.

SENATOR CALLS SIMS TRADUCER AND VILIFIER

Walsh of Montana Raps "Jackass" Speech; Makes Eloquent Plea for Irish

By Universal Service.

Washington, July 21. — Rear Admiral William S. Sims' defense of his famous "jackass" speech in London last June, for which he was recalled and publicly reprimanded by Secretary of the Navy Denby, for the second time in his career, was attacked in the Senate by Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana.

The senator also criticised the Senate Naval Affairs Committee for failing to act on the Harrison resolution, directing a thorough investigation of the admiral's address. The lack of action it is known, is due to a private agreement among Senate leaders to drop the affair.

Quoting voluminously from the "pertinent passages" of Admiral Sims' book, "The Victory at Sea," and comparing them with his London speech, Senator Walsh made the flat assertion that the admiral's claim that his criticisms of the Irish and Irish-Americans on that occasion was nothing more than he had expressed in his book was an untruth.

TRADUCES IRISH PEOPLE.

"That this statement is not true," the senator declared, "is apparent from a most casual reading of his remarks made in the inspiring presence of the English-speaking Union and his book.

"In the latter he traduced by open misrepresentation and half-truths the liberty-loving people of Ireland; in the former he vilified his own countrymen.

"There is nothing said in his book in derogation of any American, but the gravamen of the offence of his London speech was the charge that Americans who sympathize with the cause of Irish independence, represented by the Sinn Fein movement, are responsible for prolonging the war and are answerable for the deaths of British and American soldiers, and that the United States Senate, which twice formally expressed the sympathy of America with the aspirations of the Irish people for a government of their own choice, was moved by the dread of the votes of such sympathizers, characterized by him as 'Jackasses,' and their votes as 'jackass votes.'

APATHY OF AMERICANS.

The senator added satirically that undoubtedly Admiral Sims found the inspiration for his speech in the character of his audience at the English Speaking Union.

Senator Walsh declared that he would refrain from discussing "the standing of the United States Senate in the remarks of Admiral Sims," and "the slap on the wrist" administered by the secretary of the navy in disciplining him. He indicated that Senator McCormick of Illinois, who was primarily responsible for the investigation of Sims' conduct, might have something to say in regard to that later.

Apathy of the American public toward the Irish struggle for independence, was depicted by Senator Walsh. He said:

"The Greeks had more than our sympathy; they had encouragement from us; so the people of Central and South America, of Hungary, of Poland and Bohemia, of Cuba and the Philippines. Even internal struggles with a view to the overthrow of Monarchial rule and the substitution of Republican government almost invariably encounter a sympathetic response from our people.

"We have watched with unalloyed friendliness the effort of the people of Russia and China to put it into operation, hoping that however limited they might be for self-government, the experiment would be measurably successful.

"In contrast with this record, the national movement in Ireland seems to suffer from a widespread neglect, if not a positively hostile public on the whole strangely apathetic.

"Even the story of the horrible brutality that has characterized the execution of the policy of reprisals in Ireland has awakened no outcry. It has not been met with cold indifference. The eloquent and elaborate portrayal some days ago by the Junior Senator from Nebraska of the destruction wrought and the misery inflicted in the pursuit of that policy, was made to empty seats."

Fresh From Paris

PARIS, France.

AN attractive example of the dress and almost matching cape is designed by Lanvin for mid-Summer afternoons. The one-piece dress is of pearl gray crepe marocain, cross-barred with green, having a lengthwise stripe of applied black cire ribbon, and the girdle is of braided varnished leather. Plain gray crepe marocain makes the short, unlined cape that ties at the throat with black cire ribbon. To complete the costume is carried a white taffeta parasol faced with green and having a white lacquered handle.

THE all-white frock has found its place in nearly every Paris Summer wardrobe, and few models present the charming simplicity of the white gabardine at the right. Its perfectly plain bodice uses short sleeves and a moderately low round neck, and has two very narrow pleats at each side front that continue a few inches below the waist line. The skirt is short and quite slender, but the tunic adds much fulness, as it lengthens into points below each side of the skirt. Black bone contrasts pleasingly with the white gabardine, and a black felt hat trims itself below the brim with black peacock.

FEWER MEN SEEKING DISCHARGE FROM ARMY

Applications for discharge from the army in the First Corps Area from enlisted men now number 1,571, according to the reports of Major William A. Beach, assistant adjutant of the area.

Applications within the past twenty-four hours for discharge have dwindled and only thirty-two were registered yesterday. This is believed to be the result of advice given by Major-General C. R. Edwards to enlisted men not to leave the army unless they have some good positions in view.

Kidney and Bladder Troubles Conquered or Money Back

For 45 years, said Dr. Carey, I have been treating kidney, liver, bladder and stomach sickness, and now that I have retired from active practice I have made arrangements with leading druggists to dispense this wonderful prescription at a moderate price, on the money back if dissatisfied plan.

Beware of kidney disease—thousands die of it every year who ought to be enjoying the blessings of life and health. Watch the symptoms. If you have aches floating before your eyes, specks before your eyes, if your back is backache or sideache, you ought to get a bottle of Dr. Carey's Marchout right away.

It has benefited hundreds of cases of long stands of cases of kidney and bladder trouble, and in the majority of cases it has relieved in a few days. Results are guaranteed.

NOTE—Dr. Daniel G. Carey was a practicing physician for many years, and his great prescription, Marchout, cured thousands of sufferers from kidney and bladder troubles. Must Drive With Both Arms and Lap Free in Connecticut

Hartford, Ct., July 21.—Motorists who hug and drive at the same time had better not try the exercise in Connecticut if they would avoid danger of arrest. An order from the State Motor Vehicle Commissioner puts a ban on the practice of women sitting in laps of drivers and of one-arm driving.

The chief inspector already has caused the conviction in the Berlin town court of Henry Greenberg of Hartford, arrested while driving with a woman in his lap. The inspector says that a one-armed persons cannot get drivers' licenses, persons with no arms are expected to use toes for the safety of themselves and the public.

MOONSHINE LAIR REVEALED BY BROOK'S ODOR

Andover Raiders Find Still Hidden in Thicket Dugout Guarded by Barbed Wire

Andover, Mass., July 21.—Andover's largest liquor seizure was made by the police on Chandler Road, in a wooded thicket, where an illicit still had been operated successfully for some time.

As a result of the raid Michael Zaleshia of No. 50 Oxford street, Lawrence, and Michael Butkwiis of Chandler road, were each fined $150 in court.

Two fifty-gallon stills and nine barrels of mash were confiscated.

Women folk of the farm household nearby dumped a quantity of the illicit liquor but left enough for a raiding sample, which resulted in conviction.

The distillery was hidden in true Kentuckian style in a veritable overseas dugout. A brook which ran by the dugout proved the undoing of the moonshiners. Strong odors from the brook gave the police their tip.

Barbed wire entanglements and thick undergrowth baffled the first approach to the lone cabin.

Both men were rushed to the Melrose Hospital, where they are in a serious condition.

KLOOR'S FORMER FIANCEE FEARS 'HEAD IS TURNED'

Chicago, July 21.—Miss Alexandra Flowerton of Far Rockaway, N. Y., talked for the first time about breaking her engagement with Lieutenant Louis P. Kloor, who achieved fame as a balloonist.

"The thing that hurts me," she said, "is that Lieutenant Kloor said he broke the engagement. That is not so. Since his return to New York he has been wined and dined until I think it has turned his head. Three weeks ago I told him that I would not marry him."

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely vegetable), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in it makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advertisement.

23 MORE TEST PICTURES TO APPEAR

Four Weeks More Left for Participation in Fascinating $6,000 Test

Four weeks more and the Boston American's $6,000 Songs of the World Test will have come to an end and participants will be making ready to forward their parcels of pictures and titles. Test Picture No. 37 is printed today. There are twenty-three to come.

Notwithstanding what was said here a few days ago about the printing of two or three song titles in different forms as "Songs of the Waters" and "The Meeting of the Waters"—a correspondent writes to the Test Editor about it under yesterday's date.

Use the spelling and arrangement you find in the List of Titles on the day the picture appears and you can not be wrong. If the title appears in two forms on the same day, take your choice, either way is correct. Nobody will be charged with an error and no title will be marked "incorrect" if the contestant will follow the style of the List of Titles. It has not always been easy to find the titles most desirable for the List and in sufficient numbers. The Test Editor has come to the aid of several publishers. Some of them drop the articles "A" and "the." Others use them. Hence the mix-up. It need not concern and must not worry you. Either way is O. K. Follow the style used on the day of the Test Picture's appearance.

With only a comparatively short distance to go before the mailing of Test Pictures and Titles, the Test Editor begins to be alarmed. Mr. Artist appears to be asleep at the switch. He is as easy as this year's crop of Big League pitchers. Did he use all his "stickers" in the Movie Play Title Test? What is the matter?

Look at today's picture. Well, of all the——!

Tomorrow, Test Picture No. 38.

TEST RULES

The Boston American Songs of the World Title Test is open to all who may subscribe to all readers of the Boston American, irrespective of age, color, creed and old or town in New England.

Fifty cash and twenty cash awards will be given by the newspaper to its readers who submit the largest percentage of correct titles to the sixty pictures to be published in the 60 consecutively (Sundays excepted) issues of the Boston American.

Employees of the Boston American and their families are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The test will consist of 60 pictures, each representing a song or a song title, which will be printed one each day in the Boston American, beginning Monday, June 6, 1921, and ending Wednesday, June 8, 1921.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which may be run by the Boston American will not debar anyone from entering this.

Every participant in any or all members of every participant's family are allowed to submit one set of titles, but each set must contain only ONE TITLE to each picture, and no participant will be entitled to more than one award, and no more than one award shall be given to any one person.

Each title must be neatly written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American, or on a sheet of some heavy paper by itself, accompanied either by the coupon furnished by the Boston American or by a pen or pencil copy thereof, and must have a full name, address, etc., of the participant in each case plain.

Do not send your titles in "list" form, i. e., do not write titles under one another on a piece of paper.

In case there are not complete sets of correct titles awards will be given to the person submitting the nearest correct solutions, giving due weight to skill and judgment.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and accuracy, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way the tied participants will receive identical awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send their titles before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your titles from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together in one envelope.

The Boston American will be the sole judge in making the awards. The first titles sent in after the Test closes will stand no better than the last submitted.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American title headquarters at No. 80 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass., either by mail or in person within 15 days after the time limit which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing titles should be addressed as follows: "Song Title Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass., P. O. Box 220," and envelope or package must bear the name and address of sender printed either written or stamped on the upper left-hand corner.

On the back of the Test will contain no printed matter, it must be absolutely necessary that the packages be fully prepaid goes to the postoffice to test claim matter. The Boston American reserves the right to refuse to consider any titles or lists on which charges for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

There will be no title or answer book to buy. Lists of Song Titles will be printed in the Boston American. The last appearing will contain among others the correct titles.

Participants who desire information should address their inquiries to the Song Title Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 9. Mass. Such questions will be answered as soon as possible through the columns of the Boston American. The Boston American reserves the right to make any changes in or addition to these conditions that it may deem necessary for fairly and properly conducting the Test, and the decision of the Boston American in all matters connected with the Test will be accepted as final, and the entry of a contestant is a positive acceptance of all conditions and conditions now made or to be made.

Gland Pills Make Syracuse Man Feel Like "Youngster Again"!

"I only wish more people who are beginning to feel old and weak knew what Glandex Compound would do for them. From my own experience I know what it will do, and can highly recommend it to all," said Mr. Frank J. Stahlberger, for 16 years a highly respected resident of Syracuse, N. Y., living at 307 Temple street.

"For many long months my whole general health was in a weakened and run-down condition. I became thin and pale, had no ambition or vitality, and had a tired, dragging feeling all the time. My nerves were all unstrung, and sometimes I would be awake the whole night long. I also suffered a great deal with neuritis, which seemed to attack me whole body.

"Nothing seemed to help me until I got hold of Glandex Compound. I have taken three bottles and I surely feel like a different man. I eat fine now, sleep, it now have a touch of neuritis, and I also have so much better. My nerves are calm and steady again, and I have gained wonderfully in weight and strength. My arms seem to be full of new blood, and my condition and vitality is wonderful. I really feel like a youngster again."

The recent Glandex brings such amazing results in so many cases is because it helps build up run-down glands which actually now seem to be the cause of many run-down conditions. Glandex feeds rundown human glands with extracts taken from the glands of various sheep and cattle. Practically on the same principle as feeding a person iodine, bitter. Also contains iron and other well known health builders.

If weak, pale, thin or generally run-down, try this remarkable tonic. Brings results—or your money back. Has helped thousands to regain health and strength. Try a bottle! Sold at good druggists everywhere.

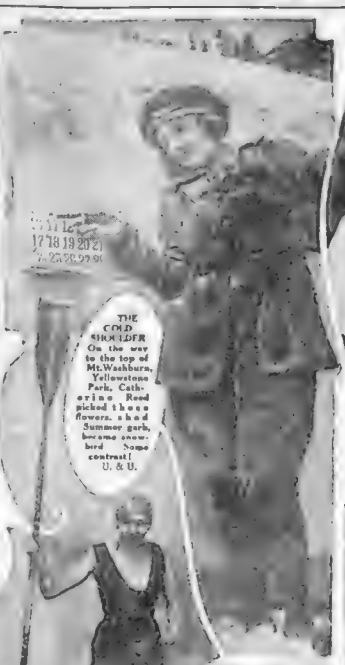
GIRL CHAINED IN PRISON DUNGEON AS PHYSICAL TEST

CRUEL, CRUEL WORLD! "There ought to be a law against publishing such pictures," said an ex-daughter (now in the U. S.) as he gazed with gulping throat and tear-dimmed eyes at this bathing-beauty scene above. These American soldiers are absorbing Wurtzburger as a charm against the heat on the Rhine (A. & H.)



CATCH ME, I'M A FISH! The very latest mode titillating Paris today is the fish net veil shown here. Drapes about hat and encircles chin, chic for the chicken (K. & H.)

REWARDED! J. Howard Berry of Philadelphia, former Penn star, several times winner of the pentathlon, who recently joined New York Giants as an outfielder, has been rewarded with the hand of Miss Ethel Rogers (beside him) as a result of his "making good." (Key.)

GRAY MATTER Miss Constance Bouck, who led the freshman class in the recent intelligence test at Simmons College, is now bound for her home in Leadville, Col. (Key.)

SO LONG, Mary! This was a touching scene, tipsy speaking. With a crew of 32 and 64 cadets aboard, the school ship Annapolis is now bound this way for a Summer cruise along the New England coast. Above was one of the "sod" good-byes aboard before the craft left Philadelphia. Note that big suitcase, too (I. N. P.)

THE COLD SHOULDER On the way to the top of Mt. Washburn, Yellowstone Park, Catherine Reed picked these flowers, shed Summer garb, became snow-bird. Some contrast! U. & U.

GOSH! So this is what the French moralists are excited about at Deauville Ad punning resort has this type of bather arrested, but that doesn't worry Deauville. They advertise thusly "Here you can thusly "Here you dress, eat, gamble and enjoy yourself as you please. Come join us." (K. & H.)

OH, SO BRAVE! Miss Jeanne Du Brul, 18, physically perfect Brooklyn High School girl, who won $100 by remaining chained up 24 hours in torture cell on convict ship Success. (Int.)

MRS. HUGH FRENCH, daughter of former post master-general, to grace capital soon as guest of her father. Husband was British war hero (Central)

GUILFORD TAKES A 79 IN COVERING FIRST ROUND OF PLAY

By ROBERT E. HARLOW

Columbia Country Club, July 21.—Jesse Guilford, the Massachusetts amateur golf champion, took a 42-37-79 today for his first of the four rounds in the open golf championship.

His card:

Out	5	4	4	3	6	3	4	3	4	—42
In	4	4	5	3	5	4	3	4	4	—37—79

That nine sticks out on the card with terrible effect. It came at the sixth hole, a comparatively easy four par distance, and two wicked hooks [illegible] it.

Despite the fact that there was plenty of room at the right, Guilford hit another hook, which followed in the same course of the first. It was a terrible wallop, but it hooked at the finish and set Jesse back two more shots. He then hit one down the middle, but took four more sorts to get down.

Jesse putted well enough. He had but 17 putts on the round, taking three on three greens, one on two and being down in the regulation two on the others. His drives did not look as long as usual. He was not letting out as I have seen him.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. Forbes

man talk to you and give you the wage for a workman? Is 30 cents an hour enough to keep a family on? Working the regular eight hours a day, these rates mean, for six full days' work, $12 a week in one case and $14.40 in the other.

According to reports, these are the scales which certain industries have either already enforced or are going to enforce, for unskilled workers. Will any sane human being stand up and claim that this is enough?

We hear and read a great deal about the necessity and inevitability of lower wages. Employers have had the floor for the last twelve months.

Would you like to have a workman talk to you and give you the other side of the picture? You would? Very well. Instead of my writing a column today let me stand aside and allow a workman, William Hardt of No. 3029 Boulevard, Jersey City, address you. His letter is here given exactly as received:

"Dear Sir: It is difficult for me to express my thoughts in writing, but I trust you will be able to grasp my meaning.

"So much is printed on financial pages about the liquidation of labor and the lower cost of living that does not seem in accord with the facts as a workingman sees them.

"In regard to liquidation, I note five million men out of work and reduction in wages in all big industries except the building trades.

"Admitting that there have been reductions in steel, copper, leather, and wool at wholesale, in what way is the average family benefited?

"In the organizations I belong to are hundreds of men who agree that there have been reductions in prices of articles used in daily living. Clothing prices have been reduced somewhat, but one does not buy a suit every day. In Summer time, it is desirable to have fresh vegetables and fruit; are prices of these reasonable? No.

"Berries, formerly six cents a quart, are now fifteen cents a pint or thirty cents a quart. Instead of a bunch, is now seven cents a bunch Lettuce, formerly five cents a head, is now fifteen cents a head. Cabbage, formerly five cents a head, is now ten cents a head. Lemons, formerly one cent each, are now five cents each. Onions, formerly fifteen cents (two quarts) are now twenty-five cents (two quarts).

"Any housewife knows that the prices for vegetables, fruit and berries are unreasonably high. Butter and eggs have declined a little in a few weeks ago, but each week since have shown an increase in price.

"Coal we must have, but is there any reduction, so far, in the war time price? If so, I do not know where.

"The only thought of many writers seems to be that the wages of men must come down. But the laboring man is expected to pay double fares to the doctor, lawyer, dentist; double rent, double price for coal and for what he eats. How is he to do it?

"I know many men working but two or three days a week who are asked to accept lower wages and pay more rent at the same time. Even a man who has steady work has a constant struggle to keep free from debt.

"For instance, working for $30 a week four years ago, a man, prior to that time, managed to live decently in a $28 apartment and keep out of debt. Now the same apartment is $51—and on a salary of $50 it is almost impossible to live decently, as the increase is 66 2-3 per cent. The increase in cost of fuel and table is about 100 per cent or more.

"Now, after four or five years of existing (and living) wages must come down, but this man is asked to accept a reduction from $50 to $42 a week. Very good, but is anything he uses to come down also? No, his rent is the increased on October 1 from $51 to $60; his coal bill will certainly show no reduction; gas rate is higher than two years ago; it costs him more to go to his work than it did and, the newspapers say, canned goods will be much higher this Fall.

"Then why should the workingman be so cheerful about accepting a reduction in wages?

"It is the same old farce, let the wealthy property owner squeeze the lemon (the tenant)—let the coal baron take some more of the juice, and rent shrinkers take the rind.

"Then, when it is discovered that the lemon has had all the juice squeezed out but the skin is still left, somehow it's wrong that anything should be left, so let's get that by reducing his wages a little more.

"Talk about the better feeling between capital and labor—it's all rot. How can there be better feeling when the workingman sees his family want the necessities of life and the waste going on everywhere while the rich grow richer by grafting and profiteering?

"Perhaps you can say a few words in relation to this in your paper.

"Respectfully, WM. HARDT"

I think you will agree that it isn't necessary to add another word to this.

DISCOUNT RATE REDUCTION OPPOSED

Leading Bankers of Chicago See Danger in Lower Reserve Bank Interest

C. B. EVANS.

Chicago, July 21.—The conflict of opinion regarding the condition and prospects of business comes to something like culmination, at least locally, in a conference of the directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago to be held tomorrow with respect to the rate of discount.

It is generally felt in Chicago that business here have been and are opposed to a reduction, although a decline at the Reserve Bank would be likely to afford them opportunity to borrow there at a rate lower than that which they charge borrowers at their own counters, thus giving them a profit.

IDEA IS TO LIQUIDATE.

The idea, for the moment, is to liquidate, indeed, from the time when the boom was at its height, has been to liquidate. The member banks have constantly reduced their borrowings at Federal Reserve Banks by huge amounts on the liquidation of loans. Business men

FOUR TELEPHONE EXCHANGES RENAMED

Cambridge, Medford, Quincy and Wakefield Affected; Foreshadows "Dial" System

Cambridge is listed as "University," Medford as "Mystic," Quincy as "Granite" and Wakefield as "Crystal" in the telephone directory just out.

The telephone officials explain that the changes are due to the fact that during the early part of next year the first of the so-called "dial," or automatic machine switching central offices, is to be placed in operation in Brookline, followed with other similarly-equipped offices in other exchanges.

The first three letters of the exchange are capitalized as in the last directory in order to familiarize subscribers and all telephone users to the incoming system, the first three letters being the ones used on the dial when making a call.

Neither Cambridge, Medford, Wakefield or Quincy are to be changed immediately to machine switching offices, the probabilities being that not more than three exchanges will be equipped during 1922.

Until next year, the officials explain, when the first machine switching office is opened, all telephone calls should be given in the manner as prescribed as at present, with the exception of the new exchange names as they appear in the directory. Until next year, also, the "zeroes" which also have been prefixed to numbers should be disregarded and all calls made exactly as if these did not exist.

'L' ANNOUNCES MORE 5-CENT DISTRICTS

Reduced Fares in Daytime for Charlestown, Cambridge and Dorchester

In conformity with the recent report of the trustees of the Boston Elevated, General Manager Dana announced that beginning Saturday, August 13, additional experimental 5-cent fare districts will be operated during the day in Charlestown, Cambridge and Dorchester.

All Charlestown surface cars will be operated to Bratile street station. Local fares will be 5 cents without transfers, collected pay-enter inbound and pay-leave outbound. Ten-cent fares will be collected from passengers transferring to elevated or Haymarket square stations.

Surface cars operated to the Harvard Square subway station, lower level, will be operated pay-leave inbound and pay-enter outbound. Local fares will be 5 cents without privilege of transfer. Inbound passengers desiring to Andrew square, Edieston square or Dudley street, east loop or lower level, will pay ten cents fare, if they alight before arrival at the stations they will be entitled to a return coupon. Ten-cent fares on cars only on the date issued and on the following day. Inbound passengers will be fully collected without privilege of transfer. No change will be made on night and early morning cars.

News of Motion Picture World

By FRIEDA DAVIS

AGAIN the "something different" slogan is heard in movie circles. This time George Melford, the Famous Players-Lasky director, responds with an absolutely unique setting for his next production, "The Great Impersonation," adapted from E. Phillips Oppenheim's story.

This set is a war-room, which is said to be an exact duplication of the supposed secret room of the ex-Kaiser of Germany. In this room is every type of deadly weapon ever invented.

In this picture, which is featuring Ann Forrest, Alan Hale, Lois Hartrott of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," again plays the role of a German. James Kirkwood plays the leading role opposite Miss Forrest, while a little extra girl, Ruth Miller, suddenly sprang into a prominent role over-night. She made a remarkable performance, it is said, as a cabaret dancer.

MAE MURRAY, INC.

WHEN Mae Murray finished her last picture under the Paramount banner, she was undecided which of the many offers she had on hand to accept. Some Wall street men, it is said, have benefit in an independent production, provided she will furnish for the story, continuity and producing.

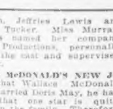
She agreed. Since that time she and her husband, Robert Z. Leonard, the director, have been working overtime on the Amsterdam Opera House, where they have leased the use of the Amsterdam "Peacock Alley," the original story written for Miss Murray by Dudley Murphy, the wife of George Fitzmaurice. The cast, Monte Blue, Edmund Lowe, W. J. Ferguson, Jeffries Lewis and William Tooker. Miss Murray, who has named her company Tiffany Productions, personally selected the cast and supervised the work.

WALLACE McDONALD'S NEW JOB.

NOW that Wallace McDonald has married Doris May, he has decided that one star is quite enough in the family. Therefore he has signed up with Herbert Somborn, Gloria Swanson's husband, by the way, to direct Juanita Hansen in the serial she has signed up to make.

Doris May has been advanced to the star class by Robertson-Cole and is getting ready to start work on her first starring vehicle.

NORMAN KERRY, TOO.



NORMAN KERRY

NORMAN KERRY is another booked to make pictures in the London studio. Mr. Kerry, who has been appearing in Constantinople productions for some time, just finished a role in which he will work opposite Blanche Sweet in "Blackie" Daw in the screen version of "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," and is working on the Arthur Somers Roche story being filmed by Cosmopolitan, "The Woman."

Kerry will sail some time in July, to be on hand when Georges Fitzmaurice starts "shooting" the first scenes of his English production.

"D. W." BUYS A RANCH

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH doesn't spend all his time and money on the movies. He has just bought a second ranch in San Bernadino county, California, Camp Eureka, as it is called, is ninety acres long. Whether it is to be used as a studio site or simply a "back to the simple life" resort for the busy director has not been announced.

This is the second ranch that Griffith has bought in California, and stands as proof that he is just as good a business man as he is a producer of films.

BUSHING BUSINESS

AND speaking of Ann Forrest, Lasky has sent out more definite information about her trip abroad to star in a London production for that company. Miss Forrest was told she was to go abroad last Friday; she signed a contract to that effect on Saturday; on Monday she took the train East; she will reach New York tomorrow, and on Saturday will sail for England.

She will reach Southampton on July 31 and will go directly to London to start work on August 1.

FILMING IN THE HAGUE.

A CORRESPONDENT overseas sends word that The Hague is a "location" now, not for newspaperys, but this time for a movie production of Dumas' novel, "The Black Tulip."

The scenes are being "shot" outside the old prison gates of The Hague and will be sent to America immediately they are finished. What company is doing all this, the correspondent fails to say. To date, no announcement has come that an American producer is planning to make this picture.

It's more than possible that the film is being made without the blare of publicity trumpets. When a story was written over fifty years ago, there is no copyright on it, if it be known that a company is filming it, other producers have been known to rush through another such production in order to gain by the publicity of the first company. That is the reason given for the unadvertised filming of the second Rex Ingram picture, "The Conquering Power," taken from a Balzac story.

IRENE RICH

BEBE DANIELS has finished "The Speed Girl," a story based on adventures in a Santa Anna jail. Elmer Harris. Her next will be "Spring Fever," Douglas Dotty Chester Franklin will direct.

MADGE BELLAMY, Lloyd Hughes, Claire McDowell, Winifred Greenwood and Joe Bennett are the principals in the King Vidor picture, "Love Never Dies," adapted from Will N. Harben's novel, "Cottage of Delight."

BLAIR IS READY TO SIGN BEER REGULATIONS

Doctors May Be Permitted to Prescribe Three Cases at a Time

Washington, July 21.—Revenue Commissioner Blair today again had the beer regulations at the top of his desk calendar for decision. He awaited word from female leaders as to whether immediate and final action upon anti-beer legislation may be expected. If promise of immediate action is not given at once, the beer regulations are to be signed and promulgated.

Female leaders were unable to assure Commissioner Blair, without further consultation of the probable date of final action. A factor against early action on the Willis-Campbell bill also is the farmer relief legislation, which has the right of way over beer legislation, unless by unanimous consent it is side-tracked.

Physicians probably will be allowed to prescribe not in excess of 4½ gallons upon a single prescription, as equivalent of about three cases, as often as they see fit.

A large number of breweries have their applications on file to manufacture and sell high voltage beer. Numerous plants located in Pennsylvania are said to be ready to begin operations at a moment's notice. As soon as they receive authority from their State prohibition director they are to be permitted to release medicinal beer to the druggist trade.

Reports from State directors today indicated that the druggist demand for medicinal beer has been very large.

CARS DIVE INTO MYSTIC NEAR BOY BATHERS

Train Carrying 50,000 Pounds of Iron Pipe Plunges Into River at Malden

Loaded with 50,000 pounds of pipe for the United States submarine destroyer base at Squantum, a railroad car, carrying with it three box cars, plunged into the Mystic river when the coupling of the engine to which it was attached parted.

More than thirty boys swimming in the river near where the cars went into the water narrowly escaped injury.

The car, on a spur track of the Boston & Maine Railroad at the United States mine dump on Medford street, Malden, was attached to the engines for the purpose of moving the equipment when the coupling broke and the car started down the incline.

Sydney Kimball, a brakeman, who desavered in time to the car but the hand brakes failed to work. Charles Cummings, a brakeman, also was riding on the box cars but on the brakes in a vain effort to stop the derailment. Kimball and Tuttleman both jumped to safety.

Wanted, a Guardian and a Lunacy Commission

Uncle Sam Hands Out Millions, but Fails to Collect

Copyright, 1921, by Star Company

Uncle Sam needs various things, including a guardian and a commission to inquire as to his sanity.

England owes the United States four thousand five hundred millions. She hasn't paid principal or interest. But England sent in a bill for thirty-two millions and a few odd hundred thousand for transporting on her steamers soldiers and supplies that we sent to help England in the war.

Promptly old Uncle Sam paid England in cash the thirty-two millions, forgetting all about the big debt. England owes the United States Government twelve million dollars for work done by our ships in the Shipping Board. Has England paid that? No, England has NOT.

That is No. 1.

No. 2 deals with home affairs. The railroads owe the government hundreds of millions. Nothing is done about that. The railroads want money, so the government at this moment is supplying them with five hundred millions. What they owe the government they can talk about later on.

In the meanwhile the railroads are preparing imaginary bills against the government, demanding compensation running into hundreds of millions for "bad management" under government control.

If a rich man acted in business matters as old Uncle Sam has been acting, how long would it take his relatives to drag him into court asking a judge to have him restrained and a guardian appointed?

When European agents came to this country in the middle of the war and said they would like to borrow five hundred millions, New York bankers said, "The thing can't be done; there isn't any such sum of money available." Those bankers had no idea what the country really could do. A little later the government had lent ten thousand million dollars to Europe, besides hundreds of millions lent by private individuals.

Now you learn from Mr. Lasker, head of the Shipping Board, that that interesting institution, a fine sample of what can be done by $1 a year patriots, has cost the people $380,000,000 during the last year, and the loss is still going on.

Million untold have been stolen from the government; the stealing, grafting, profiteering have been done by "respectable citizens."

The truth is known, but not one of them has gone to jail—or will go to jail. Men rich enough and respectable enough are not put in jail in this country when they steal enough.

Japan, Try Birth Control

You'll Find It Cheaper

Copyright, 1921, by Star Company

While others are talking disarmament, Frank Munsey prints a special dispatch describing the energy with which Japan is hurrying naval contracts, committing herself to a program that she may adhere to later with good grace.

A learned Japanese professor says it is necessary for Japan to be warlike, because, if it were not for her army and navy, she would be considered a second-class power like Switzerland or Belgium.

Belgium is no second-class power. Ask the Kaiser. And Switzerland is no second-class power. Small as she is, she is so well defended by 500,000 sons, every one of them with a gun and able to use it, that nobody in the World War dared violate her neutrality. All Europe knows it would cost more than Switzerland is worth to conquer Switzerland.

The same Japanese professor says it is necessary for Japan to be militaristic, because her population is growing so rapidly she simply must control other territory to provide for her increasing family. So far as the United States is concerned, Japan should be told firmly and kindly that if it is a question of a big family it would be wise for her to try birth control rather than control of territory on this side of the Pacific.

A Bad Tax Beaten

A Good Tax Laid

Copyright, 1921, by Star Company

The tax on oil is beaten in the House, 196 to 86, and thanks to President Harding is probably dead. Instead of writing to the President, asking that he continue his fight against the oil tax, you might write him a note of thanks for protecting your automobile and gas engine, gasoline and kerosene bills. If there is one thing that ought NOT to have protection, it is the oil that the Lord created and put in the ground millions of years before there were any human beings here.

His divine industry certainly does not need protection. And the little man with his little car, the farmer with his gas engine certainly DO need protection from the oil crowd that tried to build a fence around outside supplies.

There is to be a 15 per cent. duty put on long staple cotton from abroad. In the first place we ought to encourage men growing crops of that kind in this country and protect them reasonably.

In the second place England will admit that this duty, aimed principally at Egyptian cotton, is well aimed. The English do not hesitate to say that every pound of cotton shipped from Egypt must come in an English ship, no American ship can carry any of it. It is only ordinary intelligence for America to say, "Very well, then we will have to make our part of the profit when you reach the dock here." A little profit of 15 per cent. will help balance the freight monopoly.

Native American Population Threatened

Public Operation of Railroads, Street Railways and Lighting Companies the Remedy

Dr. R. J. Sprague of the Department of Economics and Sociology of Massachusetts Agricultural College discussed race suicide in Massachusetts before the Summer school at Amherst last week. He gave us some interesting facts and offered some interesting suggestions.

He said that in twenty-five years Massachusetts lost 250,000 of the native American stock by excess of deaths over births. During the same period the foreign-born gained 600,000 by the excess of births over deaths.

Dr. Sprague declares that the birth control exercised by native Americans "threatens to destroy the race," and he gives us some of the economic bases for this situation:

We throttle the family and penalize those who attempt to have homes by our excessive taxation on dwellings, by allowing public service, gas, light and water companies to charge unfair prices for home service, while money-making enterprises down-town get cut rates. We are allowing the old unjust general property tax system to kill the home. We penalize by taxation any man who extends his house for the accommodation of his children, his mother, or any other dependent, while if he spent his money selfishly on spots the tax collector would not see him. Under our system the family man must stay at home because of high fares, while the celibate and the childless go joy-riding.

PROGRAM TO ENCOURAGE FAMILY

1—Family tickets on railroads at reduced rates, especially for week-end trips.

2—Higher age limit for free travel by children, accompanied by parents.

3—Local control of gas, light and water rates, to favor the homes of children.

4—Have municipalities supply their architects and capitalize the building of adequate homes if necessary.

5—Remove sufficient building land from speculation, and supply it at fair value.

6—Free medical attendance at child birth and for care of children. Free surgical service for common, necessary work on children.

7—Free old-age insurance for parents who rear and educate families.

8—Education of children in the wholesome facts of sex life, family ideals, home-making and parenthood.

9—Let churches and all social service agencies spread the gospel of the true family, the glory of motherhood and race survival.

Every word which Professor Sprague speaks is true. But does our good though unsophisticated professor realize that the gentlemen who have controlled our government during the last fifty years, the gentlemen who run our banks, our railroads, our street railways, our gas and electric light companies, would greet his suggested reforms with shouts of Bolshevism, Socialism, I. W. W.-ism and anarchy?

Dr. Sprague's program is sound. The Boston American has always advocated it. But it cannot be carried out unless and until we have public operation of our great public utilities like the railroads, street railways, gas and electric light companies. For while these public functions are performed for private profit, the full social value of them necessarily cannot be obtained.

Our government itself operates our postal system. We are able to send a letter from Boston to San Francisco, 3,000 miles, as cheaply as you can send it across the street. Why? Because the social value of encouraging communication between all parts of the country is considered great and we do not run our postal system for money profit but for its social value.

A Bad State of Affairs

Attorney-General Daugherty Should Put an End to the Notorious Lawlessness of Federal Agents

The lawlessness of Federal agents is notorious. The case of Filipis, the man charged with exploding the bomb in Wall street, is one example out of hundreds.

This man was arrested on May 19 in Bayonne, N. J. He was held prisoner for three days and not permitted to see counsel—a flat violation of the law. These three days were used in trying to compel the prisoner to incriminate himself—another lawless proceeding. Then three witnesses were found to identify the man as the man who drove the wagon-load of explosives to Wall street. The testimony of one of these witnesses bore indications of perjury that accompanies a "frame-up." Finally the man's innocence was so clearly susceptible of proof that even the hardiest "detective" would hesitate to produce the "evidence" necessary for a conviction.

A clearer case of lawlessness and abuse of constitutional rights could not be presented, and if Attorney-General Daugherty does not put an end to these practices, which grew to shameful proportions under his predecessor, Palmer, he will lose the good opinion which the country now has of him.

It is apparent that Thomas Mooney was not guilty of the crime for which he was sentenced to die and for which he is actually serving a life sentence.

The Mooney case was another detective frame-up. That is now perfectly clear.

And that, we submit, is a bad state of affairs and not calculated to inspire respect for the law in the hearts of the poor and discontented.

'L' Trustees Do Good Work

Recently the American criticized the alleged "reckless way in which many of the Boston Elevated motormen drive their cars on leaving the Andrew square tunnel. No less than six times during the past six weeks the emergency crew has been called to repair trolley wires that were torn from the supports, and endangered the lives of passengers and those who happened to be on the street."

We received this information from what we considered a most credible source. It now appears, however, from the records, to have been overstated.

The last management in the world the Boston American would wish to criticize unfairly is the management by the public trustees of the Boston Elevated. They are doing, we believe, under all the circumstances, a fine piece of work, which the citizens in due time will appreciate.

JAPAN does not want to discuss anything that will threaten its "special position" in the Far East. Japan's "special position" is that of land grabber, trade grabber, terrorizer of weaker peoples. Disarmed China knows now what premature disarmament means. The United States ought not to overlook the sad example.

What Have You Done With Life?

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

WHAT have you done, and what are you doing with life, O Man.

O average man of the world—
Average man of the Christian world we call civilized?
What have you done to pay for the labor pains of the mother who bore you?
On earth you occupy space; you consume oxygen from the air,
And what do you give in return for these things?
Who is better that you live and strive and toil?
Or that you live through the toiling and striving of others?
As you pass down the street does anyone look on you and say, "There goes a good son, a true husband, a wise father, a fine citizen?
A man whose strong hand is ready to help a neighbor,
A man to trust"? And what do women say of you?
Unto their own souls what do women say?
Do they say, "He helped to make the road easier to tired feet,
To broaden the narrow horizon for aching eyes;
He helped us to higher ideals of womanhood"?
Look into your own hearts and answer, O average man of the World,
Of the Christian world we call civilized.

And what do men think of you—what do they think and say of you,
O average woman of the world?
Do they say, "There is a woman with a great heart,
Loyal to her sex, and above envy and evil speaking;
There is a daughter, wife, mother, with a purpose in life.
She can be trusted to mold the minds of little children;
She knows how to be good without being dull.
How to be glad and to make others glad without descending to folly;
She is one who illuminates the path wherein she walks,
One who awakens the best in every human being she meets"?
Look into your own heart, O woman, and answer this.
What are you doing with the beautiful years?
Is your today a better thing than was your yesterday?
Have you grown in knowledge, grace and usefulness?
Or are you ravelling out the wonderful fabric knit by Time
And throwing away the threads?
Make answer, O woman, average woman of the Christian world!

Results to Date of Prohibition

"What Has Prohibition Actually Accomplished to Date?" asked William Randolph Hearst editorially in the Boston American of July 2. One hundred dollars will be paid for the best answer of not more than 150 words.

Three Good Results

Editor Boston American:

Prohibition affects the human race in three ways: For the slaves to alcohol it restores manhood; the brain becomes normal; the shattered will strengthened: it creates confidence, courage and natural desire; promotes happiness; therefore, constructive to life and helps to overcome a cursed enemy.

For those who are self-governed and can draw the line between use and abuse, and righteously "love their enemies," it has taught a lesson of great sacrifice which brings its own righteous rewards, and removes a temptation.

For those who must learn that obedience is of divine origin, and who defy it, it will prove to be a teacher.

Prohibition is a good word, and if all would help it fulfil its idea by loyal support, the human race would be better prepared to receive the reward of Him who said: "When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee." MARY BAYLIES.

Fearless Attorney

One of the most prominent advocates of the Irish Bar was Frank McDonagh, whose audacity and fearlessness in his encounters with judges was proverbial. Once he was addressing an elaborate and learned argument to a rather dull judge when he was interrupted suddenly and rudely by the Bench with: "I must confess, Mr. McDonagh, that I do not in the slightest degree comprehend the force or point of your argument."

"I never expected that Your Lordship could," was the prompt reply; "but in order that the point might be made in the Court of Appeal, it was necessary that it should be mentioned before Your Lordship."
